Machines & Command

Military commanders at base and unit levels in all the Services have heard much during recent months about how electronic devices can save money and manpower for the Defense Department.

At Third Air Force Headquarters in England, the emphasis is different. A highly developed mechanical Supply Accounting System is designed primarily to aid the commander to get his job done. Commanders at all echelons, Supply and Statistical officers will want to read about this pioneering project on Page 11.

B/G Roberts Is First Marine To Direct I&E

Brig. Gen. Carson A. Roberts, USMC, has been named to succeed RADM. Harold O. Larson, USN, as Director of Armed Forces Information and Education.

General Roberts, an aviator, will be the first Marine to hold the post.

Admiral Larson, who has occupied the position since March 1955, will take command of Amphibious Group Three, Pacific Fleet.

General Roberts has been serving as Marine Corps Inspector General since 4 January. He was relieved last month by Maj. Gen. David M. Shoup, USMC.

A former Army officer, General Roberts entered the Marine Corps as a 2d lieutenant in 1929. He won his wings in 1934.

Cdr. Holley Takes Angels' Command At 600 MPH High Over NAS Pensacola

The Navy's famous precision flight demonstration team, the Blue Angels, will have an "aerial change of command" at Pensacola today, 20 Oct.

The team's skipper since December 1953—Cdr. Richard L. "Zeke" Cormier

—will turn over his command to his successor, Cdr. Ed Holley, while high in the air at 600 MPH. Commander Cormier will break away from the tight formation—about five feet between each plane—as the new leader, Commander Holley, takes his place symbolizing a change of command ceremony.

Commander Cormier brought his Angels to their berth at Sherman Field (Pensacola) in June, 1955.

Commander Cormier will take command of a fighter squadron on the West Coast. During the time he has been leader of the Angels, Commander Cormier has flown over 50,000 miles to put on 149 shows before some 11 million spectators.

Commander Cormier's successor, Commander Holley, is no stranger to high-performance aircraft. During World War II he served as a bomber and fighter pilot aboard the carriers USS Lexington, USS Enterprise and USS Saratoga. He also turned in two tours as a test pilot with the Naval Aviation Test Center at Patuxent, Md., and commanded Fighter Squadron 191 aboard the USS Oriskany during the latter stages of the Korean conflict.

SAC Puts Its 5-Point Incentive Plan Before Cordiner Committee

OFFUTT AFB
OMAHA, NEB.

STRATEGIC Air Command leaders here, alarmed over continued critical personnel losses, are pressing hard for the attainment of General Curtis E. LeMay's five-point career program to create and maintain a professional force.

It is learned here that the Defense Department's Cordiner Committee has been given a detailed briefing on the SAC proposals including its pay plan which would result in different incomes for men in the same rank according to their varied skills.

Highlight of the SAC proposals is its revolutionary pay incentive plan concentrating airmen benefits in specialists' areas. It would also provide substantial increases for many commissioned officers, particularly those with top responsibilities, such as colonels and above.

Officials at SAC Headquarters have revealed how General LeMay, SAC CinC, is advocating a forceful program to check heavy losses of skilled airmen and officers.

In addition to the pay plan, which would add about $47,000,000 in income to SAC personnel, this headquarters is proposing:

- An energetic family housing program.
- Full restoration of PX and commissary privileges.
- Provision of more educational op-

Family Medical Care Program Permits "Free Choice"; Wins President's Approval

The Pentagon this week received President Eisenhower's approval of plans to put the new $76 million Family Medical Care program into operation.

The plan will permit wives and dependent children of active duty Servicemen to elect medical treatment in either civilian or military medical facilities, as previously predicted in THE JOURNAL (8 Sept.).

The program goes into effect in 48 days. Military families will be issued "Dependents Authorization for Medical Care" cards which will list the name of the wife and each dependent child.

These cards, the Defense Department said, will be issued starting in December and continuing through next June.

Here is a summary of the Defense Department directive on the subject which was approved by the President and which is now being readied for transmission to the field. The message covers in a general way the care to be provided from civilian sources under the Medicare Act. Medical care provided in medical facilities of the uniformed services is essentially unchanged.

The Dependent Medical Care Act becomes effective 7 Dec. 1956. After that date wives and children of active duty personnel may obtain certain medical care from civilian physicians and hospitals. In general, except for maternity care, no out-patient treatment is authorized from civilian sources.

The following medical care is authorized by civilian physicians and civilian hospitals:

DoD Plans $25 Million "Blueplate Special" To Give Services Better Meals, More Milk

Members of the Armed Forces are about to be served a $25 million blue plate special.

Service meal tickets are increased by that amount under a Pentagon proposal slated to go to the Congress early next year. The plan calls for a uniform ration allowance for the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps. The Coast Guard, too, when that Service is operating with the Navy.

In terms of on-the-table averages, the proposal means more food that the Serviceman likes—more milk for all meals, and meat at every breakfast.

It means a sizable cut in hot cereals—a food item which Servicemen in general are no longer as fond of as they once were. It also means a slight cut in sugar.

To make up for these reductions, there will be more eggs, more fruit (especially citrus fruit and citrus juices), more vegetables (with emphasis on the yellow, green and leafy varieties), and a slight increase in tomatoes, potatoes and sweet potatoes.

All of these changes are designed to give the Serviceman foods which are in keeping with current eating habits of the general public. In other words, meals which are more like those served in the average American home.

The program is expected to serve a number of purposes:

First, it will assure that every Serviceman, cadet and midshipman is entitled to the same minimum amount of food, both in type and amount, regardless of his or

STUDY PILOTS' PROBLEMS — This machine never leaves the ground, yet it helps scientists at the NACA's Langley Aeronautical Laboratory determine what piloting problems of tomorrow's aircraft will be. A slide projector mounted on the chair projects a sighting image which the pilot attempts to keep aligned with a moving red ball by using an airplane-type control stick. His reactions under different duplicated aircraft flying characteristics help determine the nature of piloting problems to be expected in the future. (See story on first page of last week's Journal.)

STATIC STABILITY CHARACTERISTICS at transonic speeds of the North American F-100 Air Force Super Sabre is being studied with this scale model in the 8-Foot Transonic Pressure Tunnel at the Langley Aeronautical Laboratory of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. The F-100 was fitted with an enlarged vertical tail to provide greater directional stability and these tests are designed to substantiate the modification. The model is installed in the slotted-throat test section of the tunnel, one of three large transonic facilities in operation at the Langley Laboratory.

AN NACA SCIENTIST inspects a scale model of the Lockheed F-104 supersonic fighter airplane mounted on the force-roll sting in the high-speed 7x10-Foot Wind Tunnel at the Langley Aeronautical Laboratory. Aerodynamic experiments were conducted on the model through a wide range of rolling velocities at various pitched attitudes up to nearly the speed of sound. The technique of determining the rolling characteristics of the model is unique in that this sting is the only support arrangement of its kind known to be in operation. The sting was conceived and designed by scientists and engineers of Langley's 7x10-foot high-speed wind tunnel.

TAC Squadrons Swap Europe-Stateside Duties

The 304th Fighter-Bomber Squadron, commanded by Lt. Col. E. E. McClarren, USAF, has arrived at its home base at Clovis AFB, New Mex., after completing a six-month tour of duty at Toul-Rosiere Air Base, near Nancy, France.

Replacing the 304th was the 429th Squadron, also attached to 312th Wing at Clovis. The 429th is led by Maj. Francis B. Clark, USAF.

The exchange of the two TAC squadrons was made by the 62d Troop Carrier Wing's Douglas C-124 "Globemaster's" of the 18th Air Force in a cross-ocean shuttle.

NACA Starts Work On A-Research Unit

Looking forward to detailed studies of problems of aircraft nuclear propulsion systems, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics has broken ground for construction of its Plum Brook Research Reactor Facility near Sandusky, Ohio.

The reactor, which will be completed within three years at a cost of more than $5,000,000, will be staffed and operated by the NACA's Lewis Propulsion Laboratory at nearby Cleveland. The Lewis Laboratory has been working on problems of atomic energy propulsion for some time, using its existing facilities.

Dr. Edward R. Sharp, Director of the Lewis Laboratory, points out that extensive research is necessary before atomic powered flight can take place. The main interest of the Lewis Laboratory in atomic power, he said, is the conversion of energy generated in a reactor to useful thrust in the most efficient manner possible.

"To do this," he said, "it is necessary to simulate in a safe and controlled manner the temperatures, stresses and corrosion and radiation conditions which would be experienced in an atomic nuclear power plant."

DoD Plans $25 Million "Blueplate Special" To Improve Meals

From first page—her uniform.

Second, it will improve morale by putting more acceptable meals on all mess-hall tables.

Third, it will help the Armed Forces in their battle of the waistline by adding more milk, green vegetables and fruit to the diet and cutting down on hot cereals and sugar.

The proposal also is expected to come to the aid of many Congressmen who receive daily complaints from constituents who feel that their sons are not getting as much milk as they should, or that they are getting fewer calories than a cousin in another service.

In addition, the planned legislation carries out the recommendations of a Hoover Commission study which urged a uniform ration as an economy move. The Commission said such a step would "make it easier to estimate needs, maintain inventories, control stocks, and it would simplify accounting and produce economy generally."

At present, the Army and Air Force have one ration, the Navy a different one, and the Marine Corps a third.

Under the proposed law, the ration (which is the food issued to one man for one day) will be the same for all Services. The planned ration has been reduced to 16 general categories designed to give every Serviceman approximately five and one-half pounds of prepared food. This is almost a pound more than they now receive.

The proposal also assures that members of the Armed Forces will receive the proper number of calories from the food they eat.

Researchers have found that young

Senior Service College Selection Board Will Make Army Choice For School

Selection of Army officers to attend senior service colleges in the future will be made by a Senior Service College Selection Board, composed of senior officer graduates of the National War College, the Industrial College of the Armed Forces or the Army War College.

The board will normally meet each November to make selection for the following year.

It will consist of two panels of which one will select 38 principal and 15 alternate nominees to attend the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. The second panel will select 34 principal and 12 alternate nominees for attendance at the National War College, and 179 principal and 50 alternates for the Army War College.

The second panel will also make selections, on a basis of invitational quotas as received, to the Air War College, the Navy War College, British Imperial Defense College and the Canadian National Defense College.

To assure each arm and service war college representation, 25% of the annual senior service college input (69 student spaces) is reserved as minimum branch quotas. Technical service branch nominations will be supplied to the board by the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics. Combat arms and administrative service lists will be furnished by the Career Management Division.

Nominations furnished by these offices will be made up in order of merit and, additionally, will include the names of all officers not recommended who have OET's as high or higher than the lowest officer nominated. An explanation will be given as to why officers with higher efficiency reports were not included in the nominations.

After arranging its nominees in order of merit, the second panel will decide the college the individual will attend. The proper college for the individual will be determined as the one from which the Army will gain the most benefit, with consideration given to the officer's experience, previous schooling and service potential.

"Tourist" Imbroglia Continues In Japan; More USMC Wives Join Revolutionaries

The possibility still remains that the Navy may act to reverse or change the Marine Corps policy which prohibits families from joining officers and men assigned to Fleet Marine Forces in Japan and Okinawa.

A spokesman in the office of Assistant Navy Secretary Albert Pratt told THE JOURNAL that the Personnel and Reserve Forces Chief "still has the matter under consideration."

In the meantime, reports from the Far East indicate that some Marine wives who followed their husbands to Japan as "tourists" on Japanese visas are openly defying the Marine Corps.

Approximately 250 wives and 250 children of FMF Marines—most are families of 1st Marine Air Wing personnel—had been given until 2 Nov to leave the area.

On Saturday, 13 Oct, 23 wives took advantage of the opportunity to use MSTs shipping for the return trip. They are reported to have been in fear that the careers of their husbands would be jeopardized if they failed to yield to the pressure from the Marine Corps to depart the area.

The majority of wives, however, who paid their own fares to Japan, maintain they have the right to travel wherever they choose. They are particularly indignant because there are thousands of other Service families in the area.

Army and Air Force officers and men—who serve tours from two to three years—are permitted to bring their families to Japan.

The Marine Corps limits tours of duty in the Far East to 14 months.

Although 23 wives played it safe and left on 13 Oct, Far East reports state that the wife-rebellion is gathering momentum.

General Randolph McC. Pate, who is making a round the world tour of Marine facilities said he would study the situation more closely. As THE JOURNAL went to press, the CMC was to have arrived in Tokyo where he will discuss the matter with those involved.

men from 16-20 require about 3800 calories daily, while those 25 and above need only 3200. To satisfy these requirements, the Pentagon will attempt to provide an average of 3481 calories per day for each man. The older men will need less and the younger men more, so the requirements will balance out fairly close to the National Research Council dietary standard.

The Defense Department expects the new ration to provide as much milk as each man can drink, without waste. The ration calls for 1½ pints per man per day. However, the milk drinkers actually will get more than this because about 30 per cent of the men in the Armed Forces prefer other beverages.

At present, both milk and butter are obtained by the Armed Forces from the Commodity Credit Corporation, which is responsible for easing the national surplus of dairy products. Under this plan, the Department of Agriculture pays for almost half of the dairy items used by the military Services.

When the dairy surplus is exhausted, the Armed Forces will have to take over the entire cost of the milk and butter served to their members. This will call for a further increase of about $25 million (above the $25 million increase under the new uniform ration law) in Pentagon appropriations for subsistence. There will be no added expense to the Government, however. The cost simply will be transferred from Agriculture to Defense.

Special rations for military personnel engaged in operational missions will continue to be authorized by the individual Service Secretaries. This means that submarine crews, flight crews, men in combat or on maneuvers, and those operating in extremely hot or cold climates will receive special or supplemental food.

The plan also calls for the establishment of a Food Cost Index for determining the value of the ration. This index, which lists representative food items, has been worked out jointly by the four Services and the Bureau of Labor Statistics and will be put into effect by administrative order when the new proposal becomes law. It covers approximately 200 broad food groups.

The new proposal, which culminates several years' study in all of the Services, was drafted by a Pentagon task force headed by Mr. Stanley M. Cotton, Assistant Chief of the Food Service Division, Office of the Army Quartermaster General.

Recommendations of the group were carefully reviewed by the highest nutrition authorities in Government.

Members of the Cotton task force included Capt. Billy Johnson (Navy), Mrs. Edith Robertson (Air Force), Miss Jane C. Ebbs (Army), Lt. Col. Henry Shumaker (Army) and Capt. Claude S. Pritchett (Navy).

Others who worked with the group were Lt. Norman Harbough (Navy), Lt. Richard Babler (Navy), Maj. Frederick H. G. Sahl (Air Force), Capt. L. P. Day (USMC), CWO D. R. Lebsack (USMC), Mr. Daniel J. Carr (OSD), Mr. Robert W. Kremkau (OSD), Miss Joan Niland (Army), Mrs. Rachel Ice Hubbard (Air Force), Mr. John J. Norman (Army), Mr. F. Reed Dickerson (OSD), Lt. Col. William R. Lucius (USMC), LCDR. Mack A. Dick (Navy), Dr. Doris P. Rothwell (Bureau of Labor Statistics), and Capt. Henry T. Gannon, USN-MC (ODS).

FUTURARMY— SAC Report— Youth Activities

• The Journal will assign several staff members to cover the second annual meeting of the Association of the U.S. Army in Washington from 25-27 Oct. Coverage will begin in the 27 Oct issue and will be concluded in 3 Nov.

• What's the latest word on SAC personnel policies? There will be a detailed report next week from a Journal Staff member visiting headquarters at Offutt AFB, Nebr.

• Ft. Knox, Ky., has developed a Youth Activities Program which has earned the admiration not only of military commanders but civic, religious, and educational leaders. Next week's Journal will report how this program was developed and how it operates.

Dhahran Commander

Col. Frederick J. Sutterlin, USAF, has been named commander of the Second Air Division, Dhahran Air Base, Saudi Arabia, by Lt. Gen. William H. Tunner, USAF C-in-C.

He succeeds Col. George H. Temple, USAF, who is reverting to his former assignment as Deputy Commander. Colonel Temple has served as acting Dhahran commander since May 1956.

Colonel Sutterlin had served as Assistant Deputy CofS for operations at USAF headquarters at Wiesbaden, Germany.

He is married and the father of three children.

Gen. Ginder Named ACofS For Reserve

The Army continues to beef up the command direction of its expanding Reserve Forces program.

On the heels of the appointment of Lt. Gen. Ridgely Gaither, USA, as Deputy Commanding General of the Continental Army Command in charge of the Reserve program, Secretary Wilber M. Brucker has designated Maj. Gen. P. D. Ginder, USA, to be Assistant Chief of Staff for Reserve Components effective 1 Nov.

That is a new office. General Ginder's current position, Special Assistant for Reserve Components, is being abolished.

In the six ZI armies, Commanders have designated Deputy Commanding Generals for Reserve Forces.

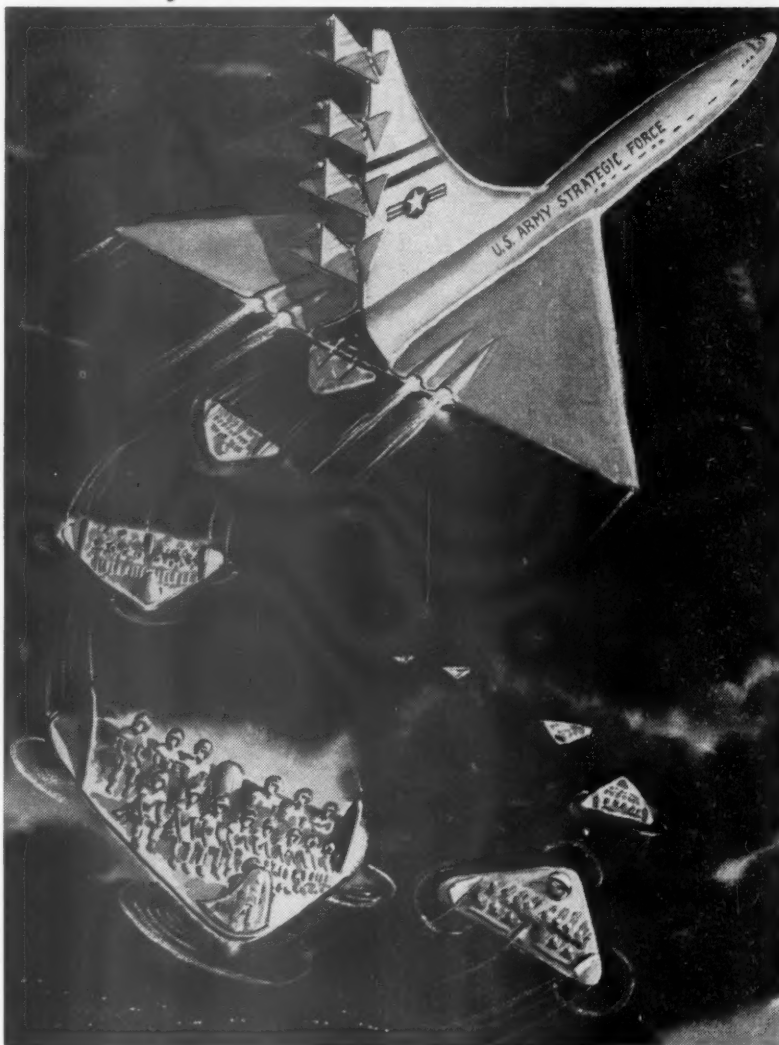

The new office of Assistant Chief of Staff for Reserve Components "will combine certain existing General Staff functions for exclusively Reserve components matters under one staff head," an official Army announcement stated. It added that "the relationship of the National Guard Bureau with the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff remains unchanged."

Head of the National Guard Bureau is Maj. Gen. Edgar C. Erickson.

It was reported also that the Chief, Army Reserve and ROTC Affairs "will continue as the operating agency for the Army Reserve at Departmental level." He is Brig. Gen. Philip F. Lindeman.

The Army's announcement of General Ginder's appointment said that "the changes in Staff organization will provide a focal point in the Army Staff for coordination of the Reserve Component program, and is a part of the Army's continuing efforts to improve the efficiency of the Army management system."

An Army View Of Its Forces Of The 1970s

THE "FUTURARMY" of the 1970s—theme of the annual meeting of the Association of the U. S. Army meeting in Washington, 25-27 Oct.—is here envisioned by Lt. Col. Robert B. Rigg, USA, for the Association's publication, "Army." He depicts a nuclear-powered transport releasing flying platforms carrying land-spacemen to attack an enemy missile base or similar strategic target. "Still moored to the transport's rudder," says the explanation, "are flying artillery which can land or take off vertically from the ground or aircraft carriers. Armed with multiple rockets these flying artillery weapons can also fly fighter support for the transport aircraft." (Drawing copyright 1956 by Association of the U. S. Army.) For coverage of the meeting watch for next week's Journal.

Crack CAP Units Team With AFR, MATS And TAC At CD Call

OPERATION HI-WATER,
ALLENTOWN, PA.

DEDICATED members of the Civil Air Patrol and Air Force Reserve, summoned by Civil Defense to render "fullest possible support," have shown pleased professionals of the Air Force what they can do to save lives in the event disaster strikes this area again.

The Military Air Transport Service and Tactical Air Command joined in the largest peacetime CAP-USAF training maneuver in history to demonstrate their ability to give quick and skilled medical support to the communities in an emergency.

Maj. Gen. Walter R. Agee, USAF, National Commander of CAP, said here he hopes Operation Hi-Water sets a pattern for similar exercises throughout the nation.

Newsman covering Hi-Water from command headquarters at the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Airport on 13 Oct, saw scores of light civilian aircraft and hundreds of CAP volunteers swing into action.

Everything was realistic but the weather.

THE TEST WAS DESIGNED to show what would happen if a major hurricane-flood disaster hit this area, as was the case with rampaging Diane in the Summer of 1955.

Hi-Water was enacted under cloudless autumn skies.

The test was staged on the premise that at 2000 on 12 Oct., the Pennsylvania State Civil Defense Headquarters had received a hurricane alert. Anna was on the way.

The CD people called upon the Air Force for help. Col. Philip Neuweiler's Pennsylvania State Wing of CAP was alerted. At the same time, USAF headquarters ordered the Tactical Medical Center at Donaldson AFB, S. C., to be ready.

During the night, Anna created an emergency situation. The CAP, Air Force Reserve, MATS and TAC began to move equipment and men.

Colonel Neuweiler ordered 200 CAP light planes, 1200 CAP members and specialized rescue equipment — such as light craft—deployed to four advance bases at the perimeter of the disaster area early Saturday morning.

THE PENNSYLVANIA CAP WING, which won wide acclaim for its work last year during Hurricane Diane, moved its three air-transportable field hospitals here soon after dawn on Saturday. These hospitals can be carried entirely by light, privately-owned planes.

Through the night, the Air Force shifted an 18th Air Force Airborne Field Hospital from Donaldson to Allentown, under supervision of Col. Paul C. Sheldon, MC, USAF, Commander of the USAF Tactical Medical Center.

The hospital was carried in two Fairchild C-123 Providers commanded by Maj. Hubert W. Strahan, USAF, and Capt. Julius Julich, USAF.

Their portable hospital unloaded, the C-123's took off Saturday afternoon, loaded with "casualties", for hospitals at Andrews AFB, Md., and Mitchel AFB, N. Y.

Major Strahan's crew included 2d Lt. J. R. Arnold, USAF, co-pilot and Capt. Carol A. Ladenburger, USAF, Flight Nurse. T/Sgt. Louis Bannick was flight engineer and A 1/C R. E. Bailey and A 2/c D. J. Linchan were the medical attendants.

The other C-123 had 1st Lt. Jerome Goebel, USAF, as co-pilot and Capt. Mary Sutton, USAF, as Flight Nurse, T/Sgt. Albert D. Wise was flight engineer, with S/Sgt. Charles Hersom and A 2/c William Goldrick as medical technicians.

In addition to the C-123's, based at Sewart AFB, Tenn., the Air Force dispatched a Convair C-131 Samaritan—one of 26 specially equipped medical evacuation planes in the Air Force—to Hi-Water.

AIRCRAFT COMMANDER for the Samaritan was Col. Orin H. Rigley, jr., USAF, who heads the 1706th Air Transport Group of MATS at Brook AFB, Tex. The pilot was Capt. Edwin F. Gutt, USAF, and co-pilot was 1st Lt. John W. Williams, jr. 1st Lt. Mar-

"Futurarmy" Theme Of Army Assn. Meet

"Futurarmy"—the U. S. Army of the future—will be the theme of the second annual Meeting of the Association of the U. S. Army at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington, D. C. 25-27 October with 2,000 members expected to attend.

General Maxwell D. Taylor, USA, Chief of Staff, will speak at the opening session on Thursday and Secretary of the Army, Wilber M. Brucker will address the annual banquet Friday evening.

The meeting will be highlighted by presentations of Army progress in all fields, plus industrial exhibits at the hotel, and displays and demonstrations by the Army's technical services of the latest Army weapons and equipment at Ft. Myer, Va.

Lt. Gen. Walter L. Weible, USA, President of the AUSA, will preside at all meetings.

Among the speakers at the presentations will be Lt. Gen. C. D. Eddleman, USA, Deputy CofS for Military Operations; Maj. Gen. D. P. Booth, USA, Assistant Deputy CofS for Personnel; Lt. Gen. Carter B. Magruder, USA, Deputy CofS for Logistics; and Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, USA, Chief of Research and Development.

General Willard G. Wyman, USA, Commanding General, Continental Army Command, will speak at the final luncheon on Saturday.

SAC Pushes Plan

From first page—

opportunities for men in Service, and

• Action to restore the rights and status of military personnel that have been lost over the years.

General LeMay's program is the result of many surveys of SAC personnel all over the world and repeated analyses and studies by his staff here. He described his five-point program last Spring at a meeting of the Aviation Writers Association at Castle AFB, Calif., (see THE JOURNAL, 9 June '56) at which time he asserted "the blunt truth is that we are far from having a professionally qualified personnel resource in the Strategic Air Command."

SAC's current incentive program is estimated to cost about $148,000,000, including approximately $100,000,000 for housing. SAC officers stress that the program being pushed by General LeMay would mean the retention of hundreds of officers and thousands of airmen and would result in economies worth more than $450,000,000.

It is reported also that the retention of skilled manpower now being lost would permit operation of the equivalent of six-and-a-half combat wings, provision of which would cost more than $2 billion.

Further details of this far reaching program and SAC's plans for it will appear in next week's JOURNAL in a direct report from a staff member.

Army Promises Action To Protect Traditions Of Its Historic Units

STREAMLINING of Army divisions, such as the pioneer 101st Airborne Division at Ft. Campbell, Ky., on the Pentana plan, will not result in loss of identity for historic Army units.

That was stressed in an address delivered last week by Lt. Gen. Walter L. Weible, USA, Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, to the National Guard Association in New York City.

He said the Army has not yet decided what to call the five combat groups that will make up the 101st in place of the conventional three regiments.

But he stressed that steps are being taken "to insure the continuity of our traditionally significant regiments in both the National Guard and Active Army regardless of the forms of the tactical organizations."

Said General Weible:

"WE MUST IMPRESS each man in our Army with the traditions and importance of the specific unit in which he is serving. He must feel the link with the past, the ties with the present, and the need for progress in the future.

"Only then will he realize that in the Army and in particular in his own outfit will he find the satisfaction of serving in company with respected associates helping to preserve glorious historical traditions and at the same time sharing in the development of modern, progressive ideas."

General Weible added:

"By implementation of the new plan we hope to prevent, during any period of retrenchment, the inactivation of regiments which have long records of honorable service. By the same token we hope to prevent, during periods of mobilization, the activation of units bearing designations of no traditional significance."

"INSTEAD WE WILL ORGANIZE additional tactical units of the historically significant regiments already active. We feel this plan will have many benefits not the least of which will be the development of a real sense of unit loyalty in the members of these regiments."

HumRRO FOR FLIERS

The Human Resources Research Office, organized by George Washington University in the Nation's Capital, will expand its work to include studies at the Army Aviation Center, Ft. Rucker, Ala.

In the past, HumRRO scientists have worked with Infantry, Armor, Artillery, Signal and Ordnance branches. Now, the same techniques will be employed in studying methods of training Army pilots.

Presidential Citation Awarded To 12th FA Bn

The Presidential Citation, the highest award a military unit can receive, has been presented to the 12th Field Artillery Battalion of the 2d Division Artillery, Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Col. Lindsey At 5th Army

Col. Julian B. Lindsey, USA, Post Commander at Ft. Meade, Md., for the past two years, has assumed the duties of Deputy CofS for Operations at Fifth Army Headquarters in Chicago.

82D ABN. MUSEUM

Present and former members of the 82d Airborne Division and businessmen in the surrounding area of Ft. Bragg, N. C., have contributed $45,000 for the construction of the Division's new War Museum.

However, $10,000 still is needed to meet the financial requirements of the museum, which is now scheduled for completion by Christmas.

Col. Munster To Dep Log, Other QMC Shifts Told

Col. Daniel F. Munster, USA, member of the Quartermaster Board, Ft. Lee, Va., has been assigned to the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics, Washington, D. C. effective 1 Nov.

Col. Robert W. May, USA, will be relieved as Acting Commanding Officer, Jeffersonville, Ind., Quartermaster Depot, 1 Nov., and assigned as Deputy Commanding Officer, Columbus, Ohio, General Depot, Columbus, Ohio.

Lt. Col. Hugh B. Grundvig, USA, Chief, Storage Branch, Installations Division, Office of The Quartermaster General, Washington, will report to Ankara, Turkey, 2 Jan.

Lt. Col. Walter C. Flanders, USA, Director, Planning and Control Office, Quartermaster School, Ft. Lee, Va., will be relieved 4 Dec., and report for duty with the U.S. Army Pacific.

Lt. Col. Leonard D. Mitchell, USA, is announced as Chief, Budget and Control Division. Lt. Col. Robert O. Graham, USA, has been assigned as Assistant Chief of the Division.

Capt. Jack E. Vermeul, USA, who came from Camp McCoy, Wis., has succeeded Capt. Herbert L. Oerter, USA, as Public Information Officer at Ft. Carson, Colo.

264th FA Claims Europe's 280mm Record

The 264th Field Artillery Battalion recently shattered all previous firing records for 280mm Gun battalions and batteries in USAREUR.

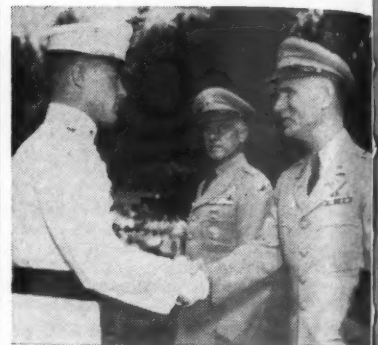

The 264th FA Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. John S. Pollard, USA, recently culminated its training year by undergoing its annual training tests at Grafenwöhr, Germany. The Battalion's average grade of 91.72% is reported to be the highest score ever recorded in Europe for a 280mm Gun battalion.

Battery "C," commanded by 1st Lt. William N. Thomas, eclipsed all previous battery records with a score of 95.07. Other battery scores were "A" battery, commanded by Capt. Forest J. Dicus, 92.87 and "B" battery, commanded by Capt. William E. Garden, 87.23. These specific tests are designed to determine the ability of the battery to perform its dual combat mission of delivering both atomic and high explosive projectiles.

The Second Gun Platoon of "C" Battery, commanded by 2d Lt. Loyal G. Hightower, with SFC Wilbur H. Smith as Chief of Section, placed all five rounds for "C" Battery on the target to give the unit 100% credit for accuracy of fire.

In order to provide a greater incentive to Seventh Army Artillery units, the commander of the 42d Field Artillery Group, Col. John S. Blair, awards the Watson Firing Trophy to the battery obtaining the highest score on the annual Army training test. The Watson Firing Trophy consists of a statuette of St. Barbara, the patron saint of artillery, mounted on a large base which is adorned with the receiving unit's crest. The trophy is named for Col. Harry D. Watson, who commanded the 42d FA Regiment during the World War I and who brought the Regiment overseas in 1917.

COL. G. W. SEAWARD, USA, Director of Department of Communications and Electronics, The Artillery and Guided Missile School, Ft. Sill, Okla., presents the Artillery trophy to Cadet J. A. Poole, U. S. Military Academy. Cadet Poole accepted in behalf of Second Company which he commanded. The trophy, prepared at Fort Sill, was one of the Buckner Stakes awards presented at the end of Third Class summer training at Camp Buckner, N. Y.

Family Medical Care Program Permits "Free Choice"

From first page—

- Hospitalization in semi-private accommodations up to 365 days for each admission, including all necessary services and supplies furnished by the hospital during in-patient confinement.

- Medical and surgical care during a period of hospitalization.

- Complete obstetrical and maternity service including pre-natal and post-natal care.

- Required services of a physician or surgeon before and after hospitalization for a bodily injury or for a surgical operation.

- Diagnostic tests and procedures including laboratory and X-ray examinations accomplished or recommended by a physician during hospitalization.

Medical care in civilian medical facilities is not authorized for chronic diseases, nervous and mental diseases, elective medical and surgical treatment (such as cosmetic surgery), domiciliary care, treatments or procedures normally considered to be out-patient care, or ambulance service.

By 7 December, all hospitals and all military medical personnel will be informed of this new program and most civilian physicians will be familiar with the plan.

The Pentagon anticipates that physicians will have agreed to treat dependents according to established local fee schedules. So that the dependent may obtain required civilian medical care at Government expense, dependents selecting civilian physicians should insure that the physician has agreed to and will abide by the fee schedules for that area.

Dependents are encouraged to use military or Public Health Service facilities when available because the program is primarily designed to cover those who do not have access to such facilities. However, the program will permit the dependent to choose between military and civilian medical facilities. Dependents who consult civilian physicians should be prepared to pay the civilian physician for normal out-patient care which is not provided at Government expenses.

The Government can assume an obligation to pay the civilian physician only while the dependent is hospitalized. Dependents obtaining medical care under this program will pay the hospital the first $25 of the hospital bill or $1.75 per day of hospitalization, whichever is the greater. Other normal expenses will be borne by the Government, including physicians' fees, when hospitalization occurs.

Army Navy Air Force Journal 5
20 Oct. 1956 (Vol. 94, P. 221)

Until the new "Dependents Authorization for Medical Care" cards are issued, dependents will be required to provide a civilian physician and the civilian hospital with positive proof of dependency status, such as the current Dependents Identification Card.

Prior to issuance of the "Dependents Authorization for Medical Care" card, the dependents should obtain or be provided with identification which will establish proof that dependent is in fact a wife or child of a man on active duty.

President Says Plan Will Ease Worries

HERE is what President Eisenhower said this week as he approved the new family medical care directive:

"I have today approved with great satisfaction the directive under which the military dependents medical care program will operate beginning 7 Dec. 1956. Prior to this time at least 40 per cent of our Service families were unable to receive adequate medical care from the Government. This important improvement assures hospital care at all times to the wives and children of active duty personnel. It removes one of the greatest sources of worry to our Servicemen and Servicewomen around the world.

"A significant new feature of this law authorizes the use of civilian hospitals and facilities for the immediate family of active duty Servicemen.

"The cost to a Service family for hospitalization in any facility, civilian or military, will be limited to a payment of either $25 or an amount equivalent to the subsistence charge of $1.75 per day, whichever is greater. For this charge, all hospital services and doctor fees for the period of hospitalization are covered.

"This program also continues provisions for medical care for the dependents of both active and retired personnel in military facilities on a space available basis.

"I have been personally interested in this important program since its inception. I feel strongly that this important measure will have a far-reaching effect on Service morale at home or on our widely flung posts, ships and bases around the world and thus effectively strengthen the defense of our country."

Flag-selectee Capt. Clifford C. DeFord, DC, USN, Commanding Officer, Naval Dental Clinic, Philadelphia, becomes Inspector, Naval District Activities, Atlantic Coast.

"Silent Sub" USS Darter Joins "Silent Service"

The nickname "Silent Service" which often has been applied to the Navy's submarine service, is scheduled to take on added meaning on 20 Oct. when the quietest submarine ever built is placed into commission at Groton, Conn.

The 1,800-ton attack submarine, USS Darter, built by the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., has its engines enclosed in a sound-proof compartment. The diesels are operated from a sound-proof cab by remote control.

LCdr. Ralph R. Blaine, USN, reporting from duty as Commanding Officer of the submarine USS Harder, has been named to take the Darter's helm. His Executive Officer will be Lt. Frank D. McMullen, jr., USN, who recently left an assignment in the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

USN Encourages Leave For FRA Convention

All Navy ships and stations are encouraged by VAdm. James L. Holloway, jr., USN, Chief of Naval Personnel, to grant leave to officers and men who wish to attend the 29th National Convention of the Fleet Reserve Association.

The FRA Convention will be held from 25 through 28 October in the Hotel Benjamin Franklin, Philadelphia, Pa.

Navy Seeks Applicants For NROTC; Tests 8 Dec.

The 11th annual national competitive examination for the Navy's Reserve Officer Training Corps will be given to interested high school seniors on 8 Dec.

Applications can be obtained at all high schools, colleges, Navy Recruiting Stations or from the Chief of Naval Personnel, Washington 25, D. C. Deadline for submission of applications is 17 November.

Navy EM Wins $1,000 College Fund Award

An 18-year-old Navy apprentice airman, John F. Cook, jr., has been awarded the $1,000 grand-prize in the model-home contest sponsored by the National Association of Home Builders.

"Black Diamond" Jets Return To Cherry Point

Marine Fighter Squadron 533, led by Lt. Col. Hugh Dalton, USMC, has returned to MCAS Cherry Point, N. C., after an extended practice tour which took it to Cecil Field, Tex., to Naval Air Facility, Edenton, N. C., to NAS Oceana, Va., and to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

While at Guantanamo Bay the squadron went aboard the carrier USS Franklin Roosevelt.

Colonel Dalton's "Black Diamond" jet squadron is the first to use the Mirror Landing System on land and to qualify with it aboard ship.

The British-invented Mirror Landing System makes use of a series of horizontal and vertical lights and a convex mirror. As a pilot makes a carrier approach, he is guided in for a landing by the pattern of lights and a "spot" of light reflected in the convex mirror. If his approach is off, the "spot" of light is not centered on the mirror. It that case he guns his plane and makes another pass.

VMF-533 is scheduled to take part in a joint Navy-Marine Corps operation this Fall. It will operate from the carrier USS Saratoga.

Col. Cram Is C.O.

Col. Jack R. Cram, USMC, has assumed command of the Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station in Hawaii. He arrived from Headquarters, Marine Air Reserve Training Command, Naval Air Station, Glenview, Ill., and relieved Lt. Col. Homer G. Hutchinson, jr., USMC, now Executive Officer.

Chaplain At Quantico

Cdr. Milton S. Ernstmeier, CHC, USN, reporting from duty aboard the USS Princeton, has been assigned to the Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va.

Marines Hailed By Sec'y. As "Most Elite, Dedicated Corps In History"; Their Training Pays "Precious Dividends"

NAVY Secretary Charles E. Thomas has declared that "precious dividends" are received from the Marine Corps' own brand of discipline and training, which "can never be abandoned if the Corps is to maintain its past and present high standards of leadership and fighting."

The Secretary made this statement in connection with his review of the case of S/Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, USMC.

HERE IS WHAT Mr. Thomas had to say regarding Marine Corps Tradition:

The Marine Corps itself is a very unusual organization. It is, in my opinion, the most elite, dedicated corps in military history. This is attested, of course, by the proud record of the Marines throughout all the history of our country, from Revolutionary War battles such as Yorktown and Trenton, through World War I engagements in Argonne Forest and Chateau Thierry. For later history we need no books to confirm our own memories of the paths of glory blazed by the Corps: battles won for the United States in World War II—Guadalcanal, Peleliu, Iwo Jima, Okinawa; and their magnificent valor in the Korean combat at Inchon and Chosin Reservoir.

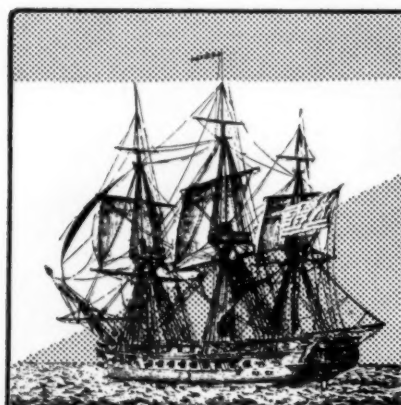

THE MARINE CORPS has earned its fame, therefore, as a dedicated, disciplined, tough, hard, and finely trained corps. Because of this, it appeals to that type of young American who realizes the effectiveness of such a disciplined organization. Each of these young men entering the corps knows that it is a tautly disciplined, toughly trained combatant force that he is entering; and that facing danger is its routine business. The Marine Corps is basically a volunteer Corps. All who serve in it know that it is this same high state of Marine discipline, this same rigorous training, which saves vast numbers of Marine lives in combat. They fight together as a team; they know how to take care of themselves and their comrades.

The discipline, and training, and toughness of the Marine Corps can never be abandoned if the Corps is to maintain its past and present high standards of leadership and fighting. We cannot in justice to our country, or to the men who are the Marine Corps and the youths who will be the Marine Corps, shut our eyes to the lessons learned in centuries of combat experience: The Marines' own brand of discipline and training results not alone in battles won, but in the long run pays precious dividends of lives not lost.

ON THE OTHER HAND, the Marine Corps must take every reasonable and proper precaution to ensure that, in the course of this rigorous discipline and carefully conceived training, no lives of American youths are risked or lost unnecessarily. It is the Marine tradition to face danger forthrightly; it is no part of that tradition to face danger foolishly. And it is not in the Marine Corps tradition for any leader of Marines to order the men entrusted to his command into unnecessary or uncalculated risk of their lives. Indeed, the unequalled team spirit and team effectiveness of the Marines is based upon full confidence of the men that their leaders will never let them down.

IT SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED that in Marine recruit training camps non-commissioned officers are assigned to command platoons of recruits. In battle the non-commissioned officer is the leader who must demand the instant response of his men to the directions he himself receives from superior officers. The habit of such response can only, and must, commence in recruit training. For this reason non-commissioned officers are assigned to full responsibility for platoons of recruits as they commence their training and while they are in the formative period of the Marine habit of discipline. This system has withstood the test of time, and of battle.

Navy Picks 307 Staff Corps Officers—137 To Captain And 170 To Commander

Navy selection boards have picked 307—108 fewer than named by the fiscal year 1956 board—Regular and active duty Reserve commanders and lieutenant commanders for advancement to four and three stripe ranks.

Of the total number, 137 were chosen for captain and 170 for commander.

Included in the selections to four-stripe rank were 55 in the Medical Corps, 45 in the Supply Corps, 29 in the Dental Corps, four in the Chaplain Corps, and four in the Medical Service Corps. There were no selections to the rank of captain in the Civil Engineer Corps.

Of the 170 tapped for three stripes, 67 are supply officers, 43 physicians, 17 dentists, 14 chaplains, 13 medical service officers, eight engineers, and seven nurses.

LCdr. Jane E. Schopper, USN, is the lone Supply Corps WAVE chosen for three stripes. She is serving as Assistant to the Supply Officer at the Portsmouth, N. H., Naval Shipyard.

Swift promotions will go to officers who have been ordered to appear for physical examinations.

All commanders through officers listed below, by Corps, will take immediate physical examinations: MC, Harry A. Weiss; SC, David C. Norton; CHC, Abner R. Cook; DC, Paul C. Bonnette; and MSC, Russell L. Taylor.

Lieutenant commanders through the listed officers also are slated to take physicals at once: MC, Norman M. Nelson; SC, Kenneth H. Olsen; CHC, Leo F. Rice; CEC, Alfred G. Terry; DC, Richard S. Hay; MSC, David E. Goldman; and NC, Margaret Richards.

Officers junior to those shown above will be examined in May 1957.

CURTISS-WRIGHT
PROPELLER

...and the U.S. Navy's Offshore Patrol that guards America

While you work, while you play, while you sleep—though any threat to your way of life be the farthest thing from your mind—the U. S. Navy is in action in the air along America's shores, protecting the peace you enjoy. This particular phase of Naval Aviation is the job of the Navy's "Offshore Patrol". . . and Curtiss-Wright power is everywhere in the picture.

Curtiss-Wright Turbo Compound® powered Lockheed Super Constellation WV early warning radar planes, and Lockheed Neptune P2V and Martin Marlin P5M long-range reconnaissance planes cruise far out to sea—day and night, ever watchful. Cyclone 9-powered Grumman Tracker S-2F sub hunters and Sikorsky HSS helicopters range closer in, providing a tight defense ring against invasion. Cyclone 7s power Vertol HUP helicopters, and Goodyear CPG blimps with Curtiss Electric Propellers. The resultant "protection perimeter" extends from the Arctic Ocean south around the entire continent.

These Curtiss-Wright aircraft engines—plus Curtiss-Wright jet and rocket power—are ready if anything disturbs the peace. Meanwhile, they help you to work and play in confidence, sleep soundly.

U. S. Air Force

247 Given Permanent Promotions In Sept.

The Air Force made 247 permanent promotions during September, according to statistics made available this week.

These included 33 line officers and 1 Chaplain to lieutenant colonel, 167 line officers to major and 46 first lieutenants to captain, including one Medical officer.

The permanent promotions to lieutenant colonel included a temporary Chaplain colonel, 22 line temporary lieutenant colonels and 11 majors.

There were 21 temporary lieutenant colonels and 146 temporary majors promoted to permanent major, while the permanent promotions to captain went to 1 USAF lieutenant colonel, 6 permanent majors, 37 captains and 2 permanent first lieutenants.

One permanent major general, Samuel R. Brentnall retired during September, and three colonels also completed active service—Emory W. Cofield, Robert D. Gapen and Clarence A. Tinsman.

Permanent lieutenant colonels who retired or resigned last month were Willa M. Briggs, Thomas C. Conroy, Bertrand A. Handwork, Charles A. Miller and Orville V. Rose.

Col. Rouse Is Crew TAF Personnel Chief

Col. John A. Rouse, USAF, has been named Deputy CofS of Personnel at Headquarters, Crew Training Air Force, Randolph AFB, Tex. He replaces Col. Leon E. Bell, Jr., USAF, who became Commander of 6605 Air Base Group at Ernest Harmon AFB, Newfoundland.

Colonel Rouse formerly was Wing Executive and Commander at Williams AFB, Ariz.

Safety Salute

Fourteen organizations have been notified that they will receive plaques for outstanding achievements in flying safety during the first half of 1956. Notifications were sent by Brig. Gen. Joseph D. Caldara, USAF, Director of Flight Safety Research.

These units, carefully selected from 41 nominated by their major commands, were almost accident-free while flying far enough to encircle the earth 1,735 times.

During this six-month period, the Air Force as a whole drove its major accident rate down to an all-time low of 15 per 100,000 flying hours. Units to receive the plaques are:

Chandler, Ariz.—3525th Combat Crew Training Wing, Williams AFB, ATC.

Phoenix, Ariz.—197th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, Sky Harbor Airport, ANG.

Tucson, Ariz.—43d Bomb Wing, Davis-Monthan AFB, SAC.

Falmouth, Mass.—33d Fighter Group (Defense), Otis AFB, ADC.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—439th Fighter-Bomber Wing, Selfridge AFB, AFR, awarded a plaque previously and will get a medallion.

Las Vegas, Nevada—3594th Combat Crew Training Squadron (Fighter), Nellis AFB, ATC.

Trenton, N.J.—1611th Air Transport Wing (Medium), McGuire AFB, MAS. Also 141st Fighter-Interceptor Sq, same Base, ANG.

Fayetteville, N. C.—464th Troop Carrier Group, Pope AFB, TAC.

Wilmington, Ohio—302d Troop Carrier Wing, New Castle County Airport, AFR; received plaque previously and will get medallion.

Etain, France—388th Fighter-Bomber Wing, Etain-Rouvres AB, USAFE.

Misawa, Japan—49th Fighter-Bomber Wing, Misawa AB, FEAF.

Nagoya, Japan—3d Air Rescue Group, Nagoya AB, MATS.

St. Johns, Newfoundland—6614th Air Transport Group (Medium), Pepperrell AFB, NEAC.

FIRST FLIGHT OF THE B-57E—The Air Force's newest and fastest jet-powered tow-target airplane. The Martin-built B-57Es are currently being used by the 17th Tow Target Squadron at Vincent AFB, Yuma, Ariz., and are the first Air Force airplanes especially designed for target towing. They can deploy their targets at higher altitudes than has been possible heretofore, and can remain at these heights for a longer time. Of vital importance is the B-57E's convertibility from a target-towing vehicle to a tactical bomber, permitting ready augmentation of the Tactical Air Command in the event of an emergency.

Yuma Base Dedicated In Honor Of B/G Vincent

Vincent Air Force Base, Yuma, Ariz., was formally dedicated 12 Oct. in memory of Brig. Gen. Clinton D. Vincent, USAF, an outstanding officer who had a great personal interest in the development of the Air Defense Command's Weapons Employment Center at Yuma.

The ceremony included a 25-minute aerial salute in which formations of North American F-100's and Convair F-102's from George AFB, Calif., participated. Highlighting the aerial activities was a demonstration by the "Thunderbirds" from Nellis AFB, Las Vegas, Nev., also flying the North American F-100's.

Guests of honor at the ceremony were General Vincent's widow, Mrs. Margaret Hennessey Vincent, and their four children: Margaret, Thayer, Patricia and Clinton D. Jr., from San Antonio, Tex.

C-119 Logs 101.2 Hrs. In Month

A C-119 Flying Boxcar of the 5039th Air Transport Squadron flew 101.2 hours during September, setting what ATS officials believe is a time record for that type of plane during a 30-day period.

The Fairchild C-119, which has been modified in a tanker configuration, racked up its flight time while accomplishing supply delivery missions to a remote site from its home base at Elmendorf AFB, Alaska.

Primarily responsible for the time record was credited to the maintenance crew headed by T/Sgt. Radway R. Gibbs, Jr., and manned by S/Sgt. Robert O. Leebeter, A/1C John R. Flinner and A/2C Robert S. Casey. M/Sgt. James M. Parsley is flight chief.

Lt. Col. Bare of AF Is PX Special Asst.

Lt. Col. Harold F. Bare, USAF, has been assigned as Special Assistant to the Deputy for Operations at the New York Headquarters of the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, it is announced by Maj. Gen. H. L. Peckham, USA, Exchange Service Chief.

Colonel Bare comes to his new assignment from San Francisco where he was Deputy Regional Officer.

Colonel Bare will make his home in White Plains, N. Y. Married to the former Annabel Lechrone, they have two children, Harold, Jr., 8, and Marcia, 6.

WADF & ATC Lead In Fighter Meet

Western Air Defense Force pilots, flying F-89D interceptors, and Air Training Command pilots, in F86-H's, were leading competitors in the Air Force Fighter Weapons Meet as THE JOURNAL went to press.

The Meet is being held at Nellis AFB, Nev., and Vincent AFB, Ariz.

Vincent is scene of the rocketry phase of the Meet and Nellis the fighter phase.

At Nellis, an ATC victory in the fighter phase appeared likely as the team held a 45-point lead in the third day of the competition. In second place was the ANG team.

In special weapons, SAC held a substantial lead.

Skip-bombing and low angle strafing results are complete.

Here's a rundown on the events: ATC 964; ANG 819.1; TAC 766.5; FEAF 762.25; SAC 746.08; and USAFE 714.25.

Capt. Ralph S. Ashby, FEAF pilot, was winner in the skip-bombing event with a perfect 100. Tied for second with scores of 95 were Capt. Calvin G. Davey, ATC, and Capt. Robert F. Pasqualicchio, USAFE.

Capt. Davey is high man in low angle strafing with 177.5 points. Second is Col. Bruce H. Hinton with a 159.

At Vincent, WADF went into the lead in the rocketry event led by pace-setters 1st Lts. K. A. Williams (pilot), J. C. Roberts (radar observer) and Norman Gulkis (pilot) and O. C. Whites (radar observer).

The WADF teams scored 6,800 points. In second place, with 6,600 points, was ATC. The ATC individual high scorers were Captains P. E. Jones and V. L. Jones.

EADF and NEAC were tied for third place with scores of 5,800. In a fourth place deadlock were CADF and USAFE with 5,000 points each.

AAC and FEAF each have 3,800 point scores.

MATA is ninth with 2,000 points.

High individual scorers, after the WADF teams, are 1st Lt. Robert Long, EADF, Col. Donald Grand, AAC and 1st Lt. Billy Thompson, AAC. Each has 2,800 points.

Heads Bomb Squadron

Lt. Col. Stuart M. Abrams, USAF, has assumed command of the 328th Bombardment Squadron, 93d Bombardment Wing, Castle AFB, Calif. He had been Officer-in-Charge of the Wing Training Division at Castle.

Colonel Abrams and his wife, Shirley, are presently residing at 1475 Packers Street, Atwater, Calif.

USAFE Has "World's Most Travelled" Superintendent Of Schools; His District, Blessed With Fine Teachers, Is 5 Times U.S. Size

(Under the leadership of Lt. Gen. William H. Tunner, USAF, a unique dependent school system has been established throughout U. S. Air Forces in Europe. This set-up, administered by a distinguished civilian educator, may be a pace-setter for other overseas commands. To get the story of how USAFE has improved the education opportunities for thousands of youngsters, THE JOURNAL recently visited Wiesbaden Headquarters and talked with the new Superintendent.)

USAFE HEADQUARTERS
WIESBADEN, GERMANY

SCHOOL Superintendents throughout the United States — particularly those who like to travel—can be jealous of Dr. Joseph A. Mason.

As Superintendent of USAFE Schools, he is responsible for 54 elementary and eight high schools in 13 countries—an area that is five times the size of continental United States.

"I guess it would be safe to say that I am the only School Superintendent in the world who visits his classrooms by Douglas C-54," says Dr. Mason. He arrived here in late Summer when Lt. Gen. William H. Tunner, C-in-C, decided that there should be a permanent civilian School Superintendent for USAFE.

While School Boards and Superintendents in the United States universally are disturbed over shortages of teachers and lack of adequate professional qualifications on grammar and high school faculties, Dr. Mason is able to report that more than 900 of his 1000 teachers have a Master's Degree in Education or at least five years experience. This past Summer, 6000 teachers applied for 400 vacancies.

The 1000 USAFE teachers are responsible for 21,000 children. This means about 21 to a classroom—a ratio that would create envy in most major school systems throughout the Nation.

Dr. Mason, former Superintendent of Schools in Shokle, Ill., explains that one of the main reasons he is able to attract top-notch teachers is the opportunity they have for travel while working for USAFE. A teacher in the USAFE system has a chance, for example, to spend one year in England, another year in Germany, and possibly a third year in North Africa, or the Middle East. Oslo, Norway, is another part of Dr. Mason's mammoth school district.

At Wiesbaden, USAFE officials say that General Tunner's decision to name a skilled civilian educator as Superintendent, with responsibilities direct to the C-in-C, is another key factor in the recruitment of outstanding teachers.

THE USAFE SCHOOL SYSTEM employs the "double deputy" approach. Dr. Mason is in exclusive charge of the professional program. Lt. Col. John R. Sala, USAF, Commander of the 7135th School Squadron, is charged with supporting the school program.

To assure strong base-level participation, General Tunner and Dr. Mason insist that the Base Commander serve as president of the School Board.

Heretofore, the numbered Air Force of USAFE operated their own school systems. Now, there is central direction from Wiesbaden. Among many advantages is the fact that a USAFE family moving from one point in the command to another can count on continuity in the education of their children.

AN UNUSUAL ACTIVITY of the USAFE School System is the maintenance of four dormitories for high school students. These are located at London, Wiesbaden, Chateauroux and Nouasseur.

A student is eligible for these dormitories when it would not be possible to obtain a U. S. type education without traveling one and a half hours or more each way every day to and from school.

THE CENTRAL WELFARE FUND aids the USAFE School System with a grant of $7000 per year. This money helps defray the cost of high school year books and also is used to provide special "sight-saving equipment" for children with poor eyesight.

A Big New Field for Communications Service

Business machines send and receive data over Bell System lines

Bell System teletypewriter and "common language" tape. Information recorded on perforated tape is fed right into a Bell System teletypewriter and then transmitted and reproduced automatically on other teletypewriters at whatever locations desired. Or the teletypewriter can automatically write and distribute orders and make, at the same time, a second tape containing only the items of information which should go to a computing center for analysis.

New times and new needs bring many new uses for Bell System services. A new field of tremendous possibilities is in enabling modern business machines, as well as people, to communicate with each other.

One very important use is in Integrated Data Processing, or what can be described more simply as "doing repetitive paper work mechanically."

Such automatic processing may range all the way from keeping routine records to the operation of electronic computers which absorb great quantities of data and turn out answers with astonishing speed.

There are any number of possible uses. But whether the machines are mechanical or electronic, quick, two-way communication between them is becoming more and more important.

This is where Bell System teletypewriter service is so helpful. It can now be used to link machine with machine, office with office, or offices with plant or central headquarters, by a "common language" tape.

Bell System teletypewriter service is already an essential part of Integrated Data Processing, and its use is growing. But it is just one of many new and special Bell System services to meet the needs of business and industry.

Whatever the need—from a single telephone to a teletypewriter network or a private telephone line to control or co-ordinate operations in separated places—there's a Bell System service to meet it. Or it will be tailor-made to fit the particular requirements of your business.

Continued Losses. The renewed stress General Curtis E. LeMay, Commander-in-Chief of the Strategic Air Command, is putting upon his program for the revitalization of career incentives should give the Congress, the Department of Defense, and its Cordiner Committee a firmer realization that the problem of attracting and retaining professional personnel in the military services is far from solved.

It is true that a great deal has been done, but the retrogression in the Services has been so great over the years since WWII while demands and policies in industry have expanded and liberalized so much, that the gap is so wide that much remains to be done. As THE JOURNAL reporter reveals in his dispatch from SAC headquarters (see story on first page of this issue) losses in manpower continue to be the main problem of that vital arm of National Defense.

The problem is so pressing that it is reported that General LeMay is devoting the greater part of his time to it. He will pull no punches to get across his story of how a relatively small expenditure now will mean much greater economies in the future and at the same time add enormously to the combat capabilities of his world-wide organization.

"We can buy the airplanes," he said last June in discussing his five-point plan (THE JOURNAL, 9 June '56) "we can buy the supplies, we can build the bases—but until we can program the numbers and the quality of people we must have, we will be operating inefficiently, with an unduly high cost, and with less than full effectiveness in the national interest. It is time that we started placing the proper premium instead of increasing penalties, on the patriotism of the people who defend this country of ours."

At this time when the Department of Defense is laying plans to present its own broadened plan to Congress and the Cordiner Committee is preparing its recommendations, the effect of the disclosures being made by SAC (more will be printed in next week's JOURNAL) will have an important bearing on the ultimate outcome.

Retired Officers Back to School. Eighteen retired officers of various branches of the Armed Services have gone back to school. They are enrolled in a special course established at Purdue University as a refresher, principally in the field of mathematics. The course is designed to prepare them to join college teaching staffs a year from now as full-fledged faculty members. Purdue established this course, which is still on an experimental basis, to help increase the supply of college teachers of mathematics.

The course, and the fact that 18 officers have elected to take it, emphasizes a number of important facts:

1) The mental alertness, vigor, and interest of retired officers (three are Navy rear admirals, five colonels, and 10 of lesser grades) offer a source of highly qualified manpower to a nation sorely pressed for technical men;

2) By going into this field they are making a further, and great, contribution to the defense of our country which faces a dire shortage in the engineering and scientific fields to which mathematics is fundamental; and

3) It offers an opening to outstanding trained and experienced men whose opportunities for other fields are stringently limited by dual compensation laws which restrict them in performing further useful services for their government, and by other and confusing statutes barring them from many types of employment by firms doing business with the government, wherein they could

We congratulate Purdue on its action in setting up this course which offers retired officers a patriotic outlet for their talents. U.S. Air Force Women's Club

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

In November 1955 a group of mothers, daughters, sisters, and wives of men who have served or who are now serving in the Air Force, met to form the U. S. Air Force Women's Club of New Orleans, La.

This group was formed under the tutelage and guidance of Capt. Laird Guttersen and of the Recruiting Office of the Air Force, located at New Orleans, La.

The main objectives of our Club are Service to God and Country and, "Dedication to the promotion of a friendly relationship among women interested in the welfare and ideals of the United States Air Force."

"To dispense helpful information concerning living conditions and well being of Air Force Personnel."

"To encourage harmony, patriotism and pride among the members of the United States Air Force, their families and an interested Public."

We are Club #1 in the Nation and we are vitally interested in doing every possible service for the men wearing the Air Force Blue as well as for the future members of the Air Force in their service to this great Country of ours.

At the end of the School year in 1957 we shall present Government Bonds to outstanding boys among our High School Graduates. These Bonds will be presented in our name by Officers of the Air Force.

We are also giving cigarettes to the Veterans in the VA Hospital and these cigarettes shall bear the name of the USAF Women's Club. This is the procedure followed by all Organizations making such presentations.

We are making an effort to establish a USO in some form in the City of New Orleans for in this great Port City we feel there is a real need for such an endeavor.

By being properly informed we find we have been able to pass on much correct information that has proved valuable to both parents and sons and daughters. The sons and daughters who were fine prospects for the Air Force and who are now members.

We have our State Charter and have applied for a National Charter which all the Louisiana Congressmen are most anxious for us to have.

The Recruiting Office in New Orleans has arranged trips for our Club Members to Keesler Field. Maj.

been one of its prime problems and one to which it has given great study. In fact, in the past it has had, through its own Army Transport Service, wide experience in sea movements, and through its Army Air Force formerly directed air transportation. All means of movement, air, rail, bus, water—even undersea transfers—are constantly under study by its Transportation Corps. The career of Brig. Gen. Edmund C. R. Lasher, USA, the director of the new Army Military Traffic Management Agency, including his recent post as Assistant Chief of Transportation for Traffic, has been replete with assignments fitting him for his new task. Nevertheless he will need, and we are sure he will have, the cooperation of all industries concerned with transportation in order that he may fulfill his job to the best interests of National Defense. As Admiral Arthur Radford, Chief of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said this week (see story on page 30) the Armed Forces will need all forms of commercial transportation—and they will need their constant cooperation and improvement of facilities if the task of the defense forces is to be well carried out.

IN THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago—If there is one thing the Nurnberg condemnations show, it is that no nation will dare allow itself to become weak, and, therefore, open to defeat. Conquest would mean that the victor would hold it guilty of aggression and conduct a purge, basing its action on the Nurnberg precedent which Associate Justice Jackson claims accords with fundamental international law. If there is such a thing as international law, Mr. Jackson might be justified in making this claim, but as WWII confirmed, belligerents are not guided by any law and act only as their interests command.

50 Years Ago—The military forces of the United States in the island of Cuba have been officially designated, by order of President Roosevelt, as the "Army of Cuban Pacification." Considerable amusement was occasioned at the War Department this week by the dubbing of the military forces as an "Army of Pacification," the term never before having been known to military vernacular.

90 Years Ago—The news from Mexico, if confused and contradictory rumors deserve the name of news, indicates that matters are going from bad to worse in that unhappy country. With the exception of the capital itself, and the districts occupied by the French troops, the whole country is given over to the wildest disorder. Rival chiefs, at the head of bands of desperadoes, calling themselves "liberals" or "patriots," plunder the towns and keep the unarmed population in constant terror.

John McQueen has been very cooperative in arranging a trip since he was assigned to this Office.

Capt. John McCarty, Information Service Officer at Keesler, has conducted the tours of the Base personally. Captain McCarty has been of the greatest assistance and the members who made the trip have a much greater knowledge and much more correct information to dispense. The conducted tours of the Base are a revelation to all the Members and do a limitless amount of good.

Col. Charles Sommers of the Tulane University AFTC has also been a marvelous adviser and has given us much assistance.

We have great hope for the expansion of our Club to many other States for we have a program for real assistance to the US Air Force and to the families of the men serving.

Thanking you in advance for any and all courtesies you may extend to us, I am

Army CE's Eastern Ocean District Builds For All Services From Iceland To Azores

BY COL. A. H. BAGNULO, USA
District Engineer, Eastern Ocean District

The Eastern Ocean District, one of six engineer districts under the command of Col. Clarence Renshaw, USA, Division Engineer, North Atlantic Division, Corps of Engineers, U.S. Army is responsible for military construction in an overseas area equal to about one quarter of the Free World.

The area begins in Iceland and extends in a sweeping arc through Greenland, Baffin Island, Labrador, Newfoundland, and Bermuda to the Azores.

The District is also responsible for isolated special projects in the Canadian provinces of Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, and British Columbia. Within this vast area, all outside the limits of the Continental United States, the District is, or has been the construction agency for the U. S. Air Force, U. S. Army, U. S. Navy, and U. S. Coast Guard. The major part of the current work of the Eastern Ocean District is for the U. S. Air Force which is represented in this area by the Air Force Installations Representatives Office, North Atlantic Region, headed by Col. J. R. Crume, USAF.

THE EXTENT OF THE AREA within which the District carries out its responsibilities is the result of a steady growth since the inception of Project Blue Jay late in 1950. This project was for construction of the Thule Air Base in northern Greenland. In April 1951 the Northeast District, Corps of Engineers, U.S. Army was established and charged with prosecution of the Project. Early in 1952 work at Sondrestromfjord (BW-8), and Narsarsuaq (BW-1) was also assigned. The Northeast District absorbed the North District in November 1953 and assumed responsibility for construction in Iceland. The Eastern Ocean District is the result of the consolidation late in 1954 of the Northeast District with the Atlantic District. This consolidation brought construction responsibilities in Labrador, Newfoundland, Bermuda, and the Azores to the Eastern Ocean District.

Current programs of the Eastern Ocean District call for placing construction totalling approximately $125,000,000 a year. The organization for accomplishing this work consists of the District Office located in New York City with area offices at the sites supervising field activities. In addition, area offices are maintained at the Hampton Roads Army Terminal to receive, store and ship construction materials and equipment, and at McGuire AFB to facilitate flow of personnel to and from the field.

ARCHITECT-ENGINEERS and construction contractors are utilized, generally under lump-sum-type contracts, for performance of engineering and construction. Over-all, approximately 60 officers and 650 government civilians and 12,000 contractor personnel are engaged in this effort.

The greater portion of the work of the District is at overseas locations in areas with limited shipping seasons. This gives rise to a continuing series of problems in transportation logistics. The Eastern Ocean District organization includes a Transportation Division staffed with Transportation Corps officers who are experts in the fields of air and surface shipping. The great distances involved and more especially the limited construction season at many of the more remote bases present another continuing and related series of problems in procurement. Many items such as electrical generators and switch gear require long lead times for their manufacture. Hard to get critical materials are often used in order to reduce maintenance problems at the remote bases. To cope with the problems of procurement the Eastern Ocean District calls on Engineer Districts throughout the United States for assistance in inspection and expediting. This aspect of the work is carried on by the Supply Division of the District. These transportation and procurement problems arising because of distance and limited construction seasons are outside the experience of the normal Engineer District.

The fact that all of the construction projects of the Eastern Ocean District are located in several foreign countries poses problems usually not encountered in Corps of Engineers operations. The approval of governmental agencies of these countries is necessary from the highest diplomatic level for the project as a whole down to the level of approvals of architectural features of individual buildings. With work underway in four foreign countries, construction schedules can be seriously disrupted by delays in approval of rights of entry on real estate or differences of viewpoint on the types of construction to be used. The Area Engineers at the overseas bases come into contact with problems of foreign relations not normal to the usual duties of an Engineer officer.

THE GEOGRAPHICAL extremes between northern Greenland or Iceland and the Azores provide an index to the relative complexity and diversity of the engineering and construction problems which face the District. The solutions of such problems are invariably expensive. Permanently frozen ground (permafrost) in Greenland and northern Canada is the source of unusual foundation difficulties. Extreme measures are required to protect the permafrost from the heat of the superimposed buildings. Drawing on earlier experience in Arctic country the District has developed techniques for insulating the permafrost by thick blankets of gravel which is not susceptible to frost action. In other cases, under-floor ducts with ventilating stacks are used to maintain the thermal regime when the gravel blankets cannot be used. If such techniques were not used, the buildings would settle in an unpredictable manner and to a degree which would impair if not destroy their usefulness. The Eastern Ocean District developed the methods and techniques which resulted in the successful completion of special purpose stations on the Greenland Icecap far removed from the coastal air bases.

In Iceland the construction season is not limited to the extent that it is in Greenland nor is transportation at all difficult. But volcanic rock lies close to the surface and expensive blasting procedures are necessary for all foundations and utility trenches. Bermuda has no natural sources of material suitable for aggregates in concrete. Consequently suitable aggregates which in the continental United States would be very low cost items, must be transported to Bermuda projects with a resulting increase in cost.

WATER SUPPLY in the northern areas is complicated because the long periods of freezing temperatures make the normal methods of collection, storage, and distribution impracticable. An analogous situation which exists with respect to waste disposal and waterborne sewage is still under study. Heated tank trucks are used for water distribution and for waste disposal as a necessary expedient pending the development of a method more closely resembling normal practice. In the Azores the scarcity of potable water requires the development of water sources by well drilling. Structures in Bermuda are designed to provide roofs that serve as catchment areas for collection of rain water.

Climatic conditions impose severe restraints on what are considered to be normal construction methods and schedules. At the Northern Bases low temperatures, extreme winds, and a short daylight season provide a very limited construction season. At the semitropical island bases, heavy seasonal rainfall during the winter months limits operations, particularly the paving operations so vital to airfield construction.

The challenge of unusual conditions of short construction season, severe climates and great distances from sources of manpower and materials is being met by the efforts of the highly competent construction contractors working closely with the Eastern Ocean District and its Architect-Engineer organizations. The product of this joint and coordinated effort takes form in the great variety of projects from the great air bases in Greenland, Iceland, Labrador, Newfoundland, Bermuda and the Azores down to Aircraft Control and Warning Stations and Coast Guard Loran installations at remote locations which are barely names on the map.

Third Air Force Supply Mechanization Attracts Attention As Command Aid

THIRD AF HEADQUARTERS
RUISLIP, ENGLAND

THERE'S been a great stress in recent months on what electronic devices can do to save money and manpower.

Here at Third Air Force Headquarters, whose Base Mechanization Program is believed to be one of the most advanced in the Armed Forces, Col. Victor H. King, USAF, Comptroller, takes a slightly different tack.

"The job we want to do most is to help the base commander accomplish his mission. We are delighted, of course, that substantial savings are being realized by our mechanization program, but what really counts is the fact that base commanders are able to do a better job because of assistance from the machines."

Colonel King made these comments to a JOURNAL reporter recently in an interview which coincided with completion of a conversion program from manual to mechanical Supply Accounting in the Third Air Force.

Colonel King and his associates look forward now to expanding the use of electronic devices in other fields, such as Personnel Reporting.

THE THIRD AIR FORCE mechanical system for Supply Accounting, said to be the first completely mechanized operation for a numbered Air Force overseas, is centered about electronic devices that cost about $1500 per month in rental charges for each of the seven bases where the system is in effect.

Aside from the critical importance of providing supply commanders with instantaneous data, reducing inventory requirements and speeding pipeline operations, it is estimated that the Mechanical System results in net savings of up to $10,000 per month at many of the bases. At Sculthorpe alone, 28 spaces were saved and returned to USAFE.

With the enthusiastic support of Maj. Gen. Roscoe C. Wilson, USAF, Third Air Force Commander, Maj. Gen. Thomas R. Rampey, USAF, Comptroller for USAFE, and Col. Harold B. Simpson, USAF, Director of Statistical Services at USAFE, the Third Air Force system is seen as a possible pilot operation for other Air Force activities throughout the world.

Lt. Col. Howard M. Dyste, USAF, Third Air Force Director of Statistical Services, successor to Lt. Col. Hazen D. Helvey, USAF, who helped pioneer the project, forecasts greatly expanded use for mechanized records. He says that preliminary studies and field tests will take more than a year.

"WE WILL MOVE INTO all areas where we think there may be a payoff for our commanders," Colonel King stresses. "We are limited only by our imagination."

Working closely with Col. Andrew J. Reynolds, USAF, Third Air Force Assistant CoFS, Materiel, Colonel King has created a special five-man group in Colonel Dyste's Statistical Services unit to work with the Third

Air Force staff in exploring new uses for mechanized accounting.

Looking to the future, it appears likely that the following areas will be mechanized at all Third Air Force bases.

MAFORS, Modern Air Force Organization Requisitioning System. This system is being tested at Wethersfield and Sculthorpe. Basically, it substitutes two punched cards for the present five or more part issue and turn-in documents which organizations must prepare on all of their supply transactions. The goal is to streamline paper work and speed up the issue and turn in of material.

UNIT ALLOWANCE LIST—BASE ALLOWANCE LIST. This is presently mechanized at headquarters level, but it is intended to decentralize the machine processing to base level in order to give the unit commanders more up-to-date workable documents and expedite the processing of UAL information to higher headquarters as periodically required. Sculthorpe undertook the pilot work on this project and was the first base to submit punched cards as a means of reporting in the annual UAL reporting cycle to AMC. It is anticipated that all bases that have machines will be in a position to submit their UAL information in punched card form within the next year.

PERSONNEL. Third Air Force Headquarters is now furnishing the four major wings with complete military and civilian personnel punched card files and authorization files as of the end of each month. These bases are using the files for their staff to produce personnel data on exactly the same basis as used at this and higher headquarters. Ultimately, bases will develop their own personnel files and forward them to headquarters each month. It is anticipated that authorization files will always be machine processed at headquarters and furnished to the bases each month.

INVENTORY ACCOUNTING MONETARY. While this is a financial accounting function, it is so closely related to Supply Accounting that it is developed and produced as a natural by-product of the Mechanized Supply Accounting operation. Four bases are now producing their IAM as a by-product and the other bases will be doing the same as soon as they complete their Supply mechanization.

EXPENSE ACCOUNTING. The Supply portion of Expense Accounting is being done in the same manner as IAM. At the moment none of its bases is doing any other portion of Expense Accounting on electric accounting machines. However, it is anticipated that they will move completely into this area at an early date.

APPROPRIATION ACCOUNTING. Bentwaters has just begun to experiment in this area. Consideration also is being given in such areas as Air Installations, Motor Vehicles, Budget and Man Hour Accounting.

memo

ARMY PRESTIGE SOARED among the 16,000 visitors to the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics' inspection last week when they were shown a four-stage rocket used in research by the Pilotless Aircraft Research Station at Wallops Island, Va. The rocket shown to the visitors used an Honest John rocket for the first stage, a Nike booster for the second, T-40 for the third, and a T-55 as a sustainer in the instrumented head. All of these are identified as Army rockets. (One of these multi-stage rockets employing two Nike boosters reached the startling speed of 10.4 times the speed of sound and topped an altitude of 200 miles).

ON THE MISSILE FRONT, there is renewed speculation that the Army will permit newsmen to see a test firing of the Redstone in the near future. At the recent American Ordnance Association get-together at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., the Redstone was exhibited and explained in considerable detail.

MORE FEMININITY is being sought in the Air Force sports program. World-wide championship tournaments for WAF teams in softball and basketball will be eliminated in 1957; participation in bowling, tennis and golf will be expanded.

THE NAVY'S NEW Assistant Chief of Medicine and Surgery for Planning and Logistics is a "double threat" officer. RAdm. Frank G. Gilmore, MC, USN, holds a medical degree from Loyola University and law degrees from George Washington University. The Navy has a total of four doctor-lawyers.

SAC'S INTERNAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM, one of the most energetic in all the Services, is moving into a new area. Under direction of Chaplain (Lt. Col.) S. T. Mayer, USAF, SAC chaplains will establish a fund to help airmen and officers finance aid for handicapped children.

PROMOTION THIS WEEK of Maj. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, USA, to be a three-star officer as a Corps Commander in Korea, will give a boost to Army Intelligence officers. When the former G-2 Chief was shifted to the Pacific in August, 1955, there were widely published reports that the reassignment resulted from a controversy with the Central Intelligence Agency. THIS WAS DENIED by top Government officials. But in the Service, there was considerable speculation about General Trudeau's status.

GEN. GRUENTHER'S RETIREMENT will renew consideration at the Pentagon for making the Seventh Army command in Germany a four-star billet—possibly also U. S. Air Forces in Europe. Army leaders point out that Lt. Gen. Bruce Clark's command includes thousands more soldiers than the Army Forces Far East/Eighth Army. WITH THE BUILDUP of German military forces, there is increasing talk about the need of raising the prestige of combat commanders in Europe, such as General Clark and Lt. Gen. William H. Tunner, USAF, C-in-C. General Gruenther's retirement and his replacement next month as SACEUR by General Lauris Norstad, USAF, would provide an opportune time for the other four-star actions. President Eisenhower undoubtedly would give his O. K. to such promotions, if recommended to him by the Service Secretaries and SecDef Wilson.

BRIG. GEN. EDMUND C. R. LASHER, USA, executive director of the Defense Department's recently created Military Traffic Management Agency—newest of the Single Manager organizations—already has his new unit rolling. Operating under Army Sec'y Brucker, who was assigned the responsibility by DefSec Wilson, Gen. Lasher's MTMA will determine how cargo of the Armed Services will move in the U.S. He will manage all commercial freight and passenger transportation used by the Armed Forces, including rail, highway, air, and inland waterway, coastwise and intercoastal shipping. Looking forward to the awarding of air cargo contracts for the next Fiscal Year, Gen. Lasher already is working closely with the contract air carriers for the formulation of the most economical routes for the handling of military air traffic.

PENTAGON NEWSMEN WERE CURIOUS about the Army's announcement of a General Staff reorganization to give greater emphasis to the Reserve (Page 3). It was noted that Maj. Gen. P. D. Ginder, USA, will be Assistant CofS for Reserve Components. However, Secretary Brucker is quoted at the end of the release as stating that the General will coordinate the Reserve Component program. Could be there's no significance to the singular coordination, but in view of the statutory power of the National Guard Bureau, it is likely that the new Assistant CofS will have relatively little coordinating power over the Guard part of the Reserve Components program.

MILITARY COMMANDERS ABROAD, charged with major responsibilities in maintaining effective community relations programs with local citizenry, are severely handicapped because of a "penny wise, pound foolish" attitude in Washington. Despite the fact that stakes are high—witness the current situation in Iceland—the Pentagon is unable or unwilling to provide combat forces overseas with meager funds to defray costs of such events as civic receptions, luncheons for participants in jet noise conferences and protocol parties for local dignitaries. AS A RESULT, officers at all echelons are being tapped repeatedly to defray the cost of such essential get-togethers. Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps officers all are envious of the substantial sums available to United States Information Service officials for "representation" purposes. One major commander told The Journal that "it would mean a lot if I could get only $20,000 from Washington to distribute among my units throughout Germany. At least, that sum would show my people that Washington is aware of the problem."

THE THIRD AIR FORCE in England, whose community relations program is widely recognized as a model effort (The Journal, 13 Oct.) does not confine its goodwill activities to their English hosts. A number of children of Canadian military personnel assigned in areas where English schools are not accessible have been invited to attend USAFE schools. These youngsters may pay tuition, of course, but their parents are pleased at the opportunity to attend top-notch schools run by the U.S. Air Force.

COMMUNITY RELATIONS PROGRAMS, being stressed by overseas commanders are getting a boost in the classroom. More and more native teachers are being used in U. S. dependent schools. In USAFE (see Page 9), there's a current requirement that there be at least one native teacher in every high school; most of the USAFE grammar schools also include native teachers on their staffs.

WWII NAVY PILOT AT USAF ACADEMY

Capt. Terrell R. Woodmansee, MC, USAF, a WWII Navy pilot who became an Air Force medical officer, has been appointed Flight Surgeon of the U. S. Air Force Academy. At the same time, he expects to be a resident in surgery at Fitzsimons Army Hospital in Denver.

Just ten years ago Dr. Woodmansee, then a lieutenant commander in the Navy, went home to Rexburg, Idaho. After three years as a patrol-bomber and ferry pilot in the Pacific, he was ready to go back to school. He enrolled as an undergraduate at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, where he took first a B. S. and then a master's degree in zoology.

From there he went on to Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia, Pa. Graduated in June 1955, Dr. Woodmansee transferred from the Naval Reserve to the Air Force Medical Service (he is now a Regular officer) and served his internship at Southern Pacific General Hospital in San Francisco.

USN Graduates Four Prospective Sub CO's

The Navy has graduated four submarine officers from the Prospective marine Commanding Officer's Course at Pacific Fleet Submarine Force Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, T. H.

The five-week school, taught by Cdr. Frank A. Andrews, USN, Force Tactical Development Officer, trains submariners in tactics for underwater approach and attack, and in torpedo firing. While attending the course, which includes lectures and classroom work, as well as underway operations at sea, officers are encouraged to develop and try new methods of improving submarine effectiveness.

The graduates are:
Lt. Cdr. Robert R. McDonald, USN, Commanding Officer on the Staff of Commander, Submarine Squadron One, Pearl Harbor;
Lt. Roy C. Atkinson, USN, Executive Officer, USS Ronquill, based at San Diego;
Lt. Maurice A. Horn, USN, Executive Officer of the San Diego-based USS Menhaden; and
Lt. Irwin J. Viney, USN, Executive Officer of the Pearl-based USS Sterlet.

Army Chooses 2700 For Temporary Major, List Includes 347 "Truly Outstanding"

THE Army this week released the names of the following 2,700 captains selected for temporary major and reported that some advancements from this list may be made late this month.

It was seen certain that by the end of November, at least several hundred of these captains would be advanced to major.

The selection include 2,353 from the basic zone of consideration, which had a 30 November 1953 cutoff date of rank. There were also 347 "truly outstanding" selections from outside the basic zone, including 68 Reservists, indicated by an asterisk.

The Army's new promotion policy permits up to 10 per cent of the promotions to major to be from within the "truly outstanding" group. Some promotions to major already have been made during the fiscal year, which explains the 347 selections.

Retired Engineer Chief Heads U.S. Section

Lt. Gen. S. D. Sturgis, Jr., USA-Ret., former Chief of Army Engineers, has been appointed by the International Joint Commission as Chairman of the U.S. Section, International Passamaquoddy Engineering Board.

Lt. Gen. Sturgis

The board will make all engineering investigations and studies necessary to enable the International Joint Commission to prepare and submit to the U.S. and Canadian governments a comprehensive report on the proposed Passamaquoddy Tidal Power Project in Maine and New Brunswick. The studies are expected to take about three years.

The U.S. Section has one other member, Francis L. Adams, Chief, Bureau of Power, Federal Power Commission, Washington, D. C.

The Canadian Section of the International Passamaquoddy Engineering Board consists of Brigadier Jean P. Carriere, Chairman; and Charles K. Hurst, both of Ottawa, Canada.

General Sturgis has maintained a deep interest in the proposed project. It was his first civil works assignment after being commissioned in the Army Corps of Engineers. He served on the project for two years, 1935-36, at Eastport, Maine, being the first officer to arrive at Eastport for work on the project, and the last of the officers to leave.

A special section is being established in the office of Brig. Gen. Robert J. Fleming, Jr., USA, the New England Division Engineer, Corps of Engineers, at Boston, Massachusetts, to carry out field investigations and design studies. This section will be under the immediate supervision of Richard D. Field, a Corps of Engineers civilian engineer. Mr. Field was more recently Chief Design Engineer for the big Garrison multiple purpose Reservoir project on the Missouri River, constructed by the Corps of Engineers. He is familiar with the early work on the proposed Passamaquoddy project.

SERVICE FAMILY NOTES

FIRST LADY of Second Air Force, Mrs. George W. Mundy, wife of Maj. Gen. Mundy, USAF, 2AF Commander, is congratulated by Col. Ralph J. White, USAF, Barksdale AFB Commander, on her completion of the Dependents Assistance Orientation and Training Course. Training certificates went to approximately 75 SAC wives and husbands at Barksdale. 1st Lt. Walter E. Watts USAF, is Barksdale DA officer.

SOME 732 members of the Air Force Officers' Wives Club of Washington gathered at the Statler Hotel, on 4 Oct., for their first meeting of the season, when the program included luncheon, followed by a showing of Fall fashions, presented by one of Washington's better known stores.

Seated at the head table with Mrs. Joseph M. McCoid, president of the Club, were officers and honor guests including Mesdames Charles E. Wilson; Nathan F. Twining; S. Mukerjee, wife of the Chief of Staff of the Indian Air Force; Harold E. Talbott; Carl Spaatz; James H. Douglas; Thomas D. White; Lyle S. Garlock; David E. Smith; Dudley C. Sharp; Manuel J. Asensio; Frank Andrews; R. C. Lindsay; Oliver S. Picher; W. R. Agee; John S. Hardy, 1st vice-president; Jack N. Donohew, 2d vice-president; William K. Kincaid, treasurer; Robert H. Cobb, recording secretary; T. G. Kelly, wife of the Indian Air Attache; Mr. Herbert Kasper, noted designer, and his wife, Betsy Pickering; and Mrs. Theodore Messenger, fashion commentator.

New Hats & Styles For QM Women's Club—

The Quartermaster Women's Club of Washington had its first formal luncheon of the season on 18 Oct., at the Ft. McNair Officers' Club, a gay and colorful Autumn affair, combining a style show and music by the Air Force Jumping Jacks.

Mrs. G. A. Walk had decorated each table with bright leaves encircling a small hat stand topped with a new Fall hat, a conversation piece for every table. Carrying out the fashion motif also were paper doll door prize raffle tickets.

Mrs. F. H. Higgins, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Logistics, was the guest of honor. Mrs. Leo G. Woerner was chairman for the luncheon and assisting hostesses were Mesdames C. A. Sanford, Patrick Maiorano and M. J. Schon, jr.

Navy Supply Corps OWC—

CARE and its many fields of assistance among the people of the world was described by Mrs. Ruth Hamilton, Assistant Director of the Washington CARE office, at the monthly meeting of the Navy Supply Corps Officers' Wives Club, on 9 Oct.

The dining room was effectively decorated with cornucopias filled to overflowing with colorful fruits, vegetables, dried flowers and bright Autumn leaves, and at each place, members found authentically wrapped miniature CARE packages of cologne. The decoration chairman, Mrs. H. B. Arthur, was assisted by Mesdames L. F. Hedavid, C. H. Iber, R. Granston, S. Evans, W. Twitchell and J. G. Schoggen. Mrs. C. K. Phillips, Navy Relief sewing chairman, displayed a typical layette for the Navy Relief Society made by volunteer workers of the Club.

Hostesses for the afternoon, headed by Mrs. R. Ironmonger and Mrs. R. B. Edwards, included Mesdames D. Muir, Charles Lee, R. W. Gray, J. Effner, G. Tracy and G. Griffin.

Receiving during the social hour were Mrs. Arnold, president of the Club and wife of RAdm. Ralph J. Arnold, Chief of the Navy Bureau of Supplies and Accounts; Mrs. Becknell, wife of RAdm. Thomas L. Becknell, jr., Deputy Chief of the Bureau; Mrs. Hamilton, the guest speaker; Mrs. E. W. Sutherland, executive chairman of the Club; and Mrs. G. F. Gould, luncheon chairman.

TC Officers To Have Buffet—

Transportation Corps officers of the Washington area will gather at the Mt. Vernon Room of McKenzie Hall, Ft. Belvoir, Va., on Friday evening, 26 Oct., for cocktails and an informal buffet.

The event opening the Fall season will be sponsored by the Transportation Corps Women's Club, with Lt. Col. and Mrs. Rhomon E. Clem as co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Ralph L. Sandberg, Mrs. Jack S. Tabb and Capt. Joseph Good.

All T. C. officers, both active and retired, are invited and may mail their reservations to Mrs. David A. Baker, 3309 So. 6th St., Arlington, Va.

Army Ordnance Ladies—

Mrs. Gunnar C. Carlson, program chairman, has arranged a double treat for Army Ordnance Ladies when they meet for luncheon at 12:15 p.m., on 24 Oct. at Patton Hall, Ft. Myer, Va. Background music for the sherry hour and luncheon will be furnished by a string trio from the U. S. Army Band. Later, the new non-fiction book, "So Fell the Angels," will be reviewed by Mrs. Samuel M. Burgess, 2d. A first book by Thomas Graham Belden and Marva Robbins Belden of Georgetown, it is of local historic significance and has been well received in the literary world.

Headed by Mrs. George W. White, wife of the Assistant Chief of Ordnance for Manpower, committee chairmen include Mesdames Durward E. Breakefield, Andrew R. Padgett, Ayers W. Stoddard, Philip E. Gruber and Harry A. Snyder. Wives of officers from the Manpower Division, Executive Office, and Office of Program Coordination, Office Chief of Ordnance, will be hostesses. The decorative theme will be in keeping with the title of the book.

Honor guest for the occasion will be Mrs. George H. Roderick, wife of the As-

Mrs. Sturgis Honored At Engineer Center

Three hundred fifty members of the Officers' Wives Club of Ft. Belvoir, Va., gathered recently to honor Mrs. Samuel D. Sturgis, whose husband has just retired as Chief of Engineers.

After receiving each guest with a greeting, Mrs. Sturgis with Mrs. David H. Tulley, honorary chairman, Mrs. John M. Frank, Club chairman and Mrs. Ellsworth I. Davis, chairman of the party arrangements watched a fashion show in the Mt. Vernon room followed by tea in the Fairfax room of Mackenzie Hall. Morning outfits, afternoon dresses and evening attire were modeled by club members: Mesdames H. F. Sykes, W. C. Golden, R. H. Hayden, C. B. Lyle, R. M.

Kelly, K. Peterson, A. G. Breitwieser, W. L. Yonushonis, Elsworth Smith, H. L. Thomas, and Max C. Tomlinson.

Mrs. Sturgis drew the names of five members for door prizes: Mesdames Ernest Clarke, Pearl Cavanaugh, George Fillman, Herbert Denault, W. W. Higgins and Melvin Beetle.

Presiding at the tea tables throughout the afternoon were Mesdames H. G. Lux, A. M. Eshbach, Max Gilmer, C. H. Waters, S. D. Falconbury, R. G. Storey, L. W. Prentiss, jr., C. D. Dawson, D. L. Robinson, W. W. Higgins, James Higgins, Eugene Hastings, W. R. Ralford, Harry Thomas, W. J. Talley, H. M. Allen, J. S. Jankovich and F. V. Mercado.

Assistant Secretary of the Army for Civil and Military Affairs. Receiving the members and their guests with Mrs. Emerson L. Cummings, wife of the Chief of Ordnance, and Mrs. Roderick, will be Mesdames White, Carlson, Burgess and John A. Ulrich, president of the Club.

The Ordnance Ladies' card club met for luncheon at the Army-Navy Country Club on 17 Oct. when hostess were Mrs. Norman T. Dennis and Mrs. James A. Shaw.

Finance Officers' Wives' Club—

Maj. Gen. Harry W. Crandall, Chief of Army Finance, will be the guest speaker at the opening luncheon meeting of the Army Finance Officers' Wives' Club, to be held on Tuesday, 23 Oct., at the Army-Navy Country Club. The sherry hour will start at 12 noon.

Hostesses for the affair, headed by Mrs. George F. Biles, are Mesdames Arles H. Miller, Robert Connell and William Coghill.

All Army Finance officers' wives of the Washington area are invited.

AGC Ladies—

The Adjutant General's Ladies' Bridge and Canasta Club held its monthly luncheon on 17 Oct., at Ft. Myer, Va. Hostesses were Mrs. William Kitchen and Mrs. Frank Mezur.

M.P. Officers' Wives' Club—

The first luncheon of the season of the Military Police Officers' Wives' Club was held on 11 Oct., at Patton Hall, Ft. Myer, Va., when the guest speaker, Mrs. Willis Taylor Downing of Alexandria, Va., took the members on an interesting word tour of historical Alexandria.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames T. H. Stratton, John Hodges, G. C. Williams, J. J. Spencer, and E. A. Lawrence with Mrs. R. E. Sullivan as chairman.

NATO College Tea—

A "Welcoming Tea" was held recently at the home of Mrs. Clovis E. Byers, wife of Lieutenant General Byers, USA, Commandant of the NATO Defense College, Paris. The newly arrived wives of the members of the Tenth Course at the College gathered at Mrs. Byers' home to meet informally for the first time. Present to greet the incoming members of the Ladies Group of the NATO Defense College were the wives of the faculty and staff officers of the College.

Mrs. Byers takes active interest in another American group in Paris—the American Women's Group of Paris, comprised of approximately 320 wives of American businessmen in Paris, in addition to a very large French representation. The American Women's Group takes active interest in many cultural and social activities throughout the area, including sponsoring a French student to the United States for school each year.

Col's Son-in-Law Is Novelist—

John G. Burnett of Dallas, Tex., has a first novel being published by Harper & Bros. 31 Oct. It is a novel about the airline business titled "Company Man."

Mr. Burnett is married to the daughter of Col. John A. Smith, jr., USA-Ret. Colonel Smith was known as "Long John" Smith when he captained the Army polo team and played tournaments in this country, England, and Mexico. He was CoS of the Third Armored Division during WW II. Colonel Smith's last station before he retired in 1949 was Ft. Monroe, Va. where he lived with his wife, Helen, and daughter, Mary Helen. He and Mrs. Smith now live in Dallas. His daughter married John Burnett in Dallas in 1950. They have a son and daughter. Mr. Burnett served in the Air Force during WW II in Communications.

TWO MAJORS IN FAMILY

When Maj. Gladys T. Hook, USA, received a promotion to her present rank at Ft. Belvoir, Va., recently, it created a situation not common to most family circles.

Her husband is also in the Army, and she now holds the same rank as he. Maj. Harold J. Hook, USA, still has, however, "three years of seniority of rank on me," Major Gladys smilingly said.

Maj. Gladys Hook serves as chief of the Food Service Division of the Ft. Eustis Army Hospital. Her husband serves with The Engineer School.

Maj. and Mrs. Major Hook presently reside at 55 Oriole Street, Springfield, Va.

Maj. Anglin Leads VMF-232

Maj. Emmett O. Anglin, jr., USMC, Air Operations Officer of the 1st Marine Brigade, FMFPac, has assumed command of Marine Fighter Squadron 232, MAG-13, MCAS Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii.

WIDOW DONATES MEDICAL PUBLICATIONS TO AFIP

Mrs. Pauline Kimbrough, widow of Col. James C. Kimbrough, MC, USA-Ret., has donated a 52-volume set of the American Journal of Urology, dating from 1930 to 1956, to the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in Washington.

The publications were a part of the medical literature collected over the years by the late Colonel Kimbrough, who died 19 Aug. 1956. World renowned, he was chief of the urology service at Walter Reed for seven years and a consultant in urology there for three years. Most of his 36 years of Army service was served as chief urologist at various Army hospitals.

Whats Ahead

The Committee on the ARMED FORCES EDUCATION PROGRAM, which consists of seven top-level Defense Department military educators and 22 civilian educators, will meet 22-24 Oct. at the U. S. Naval Training Center at San Diego, Calif. The group will be welcomed and hosted by RADM. C. C. Hartman, Commandant of the Eleventh Naval District. The Committee will tour the activities of the Recruit Training Command, the Naval Schools Command, and the Administrative Command. It also will observe the educational programs of an aircraft carrier and a submarine. In addition, the Committee will hear reports on various military educational matters and programs.

Members of the Greater Metropolitan Area chapter of the PSYCHIATRIC SOCIAL WORK SECTION, National Assn. of Social Work, will hold their first meeting of the season at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Officers Club on 23 Oct. Attending will be: Maj. William S. Rooney, Chief, Social Work Service; Maj. Roger S. Pratt, Chief, Psychiatric Social Work; Capt. Fergus T. Monahan, Social Work Service; 1st Lt. Leslie Shellhase, Chief, Medical Social Work Section; and 1st Lt. William G. Hill, Medical Social Worker.

A second TRIPARTITE INFANTRY CONFERENCE between the United States, Britain and Canada will convene at Ft. Benning, Ga., 29 Oct.-3 Nov. Senior officers of the three countries will discuss and exchange views on the policies of their respective countries relative to Infantry doctrine, organization and equipment with a view to eliminating any operational obstacles to full cooperation among the three Armies. The British delegation will be headed by Maj. Gen. C. L. Firbank, CB, CBE, DSO, Director of Infantry. The Canadian delegation will be headed by Brigadier C. B. Ware, DSO, CD, Director of Military Training. Maj. Gen. A. D. Mead, Chief of the Infantry Section, Continental Army Command has been designated as the senior U. S. representative and conference chairman. The Infantry School, commanded by Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Powell, will be host to the conferees.

The first annual Strategic Air Command AIR POLICE PISTOL COMPETITION will be held at Offutt AFB, Nebr. on 12 Nov. Bases will conduct a telegraphic shoot-off and the best three teams and individuals within the numbered Air Forces will go to a base designated by the project officer for a shoulder-to-shoulder shoot-off. The best numbered Air Force Team and Individuals will journey to Offutt for the command finals. Maj. William W. Haner, command project officer, said the competition was designed to create confidence in air policemen in their basic weapon, the .45 calibre automatic, and to bring to all commanders and provost marshals a realization of the importance of skill and proficiency in the use of this weapon.

More than 100 representatives of the military services and aviation industry are expected to attend a symposium on JET ENGINE OVERHAUL problems at the General Electric Company plant at Evendale, O., 14-16 Nov. The program for the symposium will include presentation of technical papers by military and industry personnel as well as informal discussions of overhaul problems. The symposium, sponsored by the company, was originally scheduled to be held in October, but was later re-scheduled to the November dates. The military-industry conference is expected to produce an important platform for the communication of ideas for improvements in the field of overhaul and to become an annual event of interest to all persons concerned with jet engine overhaul. It also will serve as a vehicle for giving professional engineering recognition to overhaul personnel for their past and present achievements.

BEG PARDON!

THE JOURNAL, in an effort to inform as many military families as possible of recent actions to expand our news coverage — highlighted by the announcement of the airlifting of our weekly issues to Europe — finds it impossible to check all our mailings with our list of subscribers.

As a result, we know there will be some instances in which JOURNAL readers, some of them subscribers for decades, will receive circulation material. We ask their understanding and pardon and hope that they may feel inclined to pass along information about THE JOURNAL to their friends.

People of Service

■ MANNHEIM, GERMANY. Men of 34th AAA Brigade have gone "over the top" in the 1956 Army Emergency Relief Drive, contributing $8,105.28. In a message to Brig. Gen. S. M. Melnik, 34th AAA Brigade CG, Seventh Army Artillery Commander Brig. Gen. Gerald F. Lillard thanked personnel of the Brigade for "their outstanding support" in surpassing a goal of one dollar per man. The largest anti-aircraft brigade in the US Army, the 34th recently was cited by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for generous support of the 1956 March of Dimes.

■ DREUX AIR BASE, FRANCE.—The 60th Troop Carrier Wing, Medium, has received the March of Dimes Award for its support of the 1956 March of Dimes Campaign. The award stated: "The officers, enlisted personnel and civilian members of the 60th Troop Carrier Wing have exhibited a deep and sincere interest in the work of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis through their unselfish and generous support of the 1956 March of Dimes. In grateful recognition of this support which has brought help to countless thousands stricken with infantile paralysis, we present this scroll as a small token of our appreciation."

■ FT. BENNING, GA. Collections from chapel services 14 Oct. at Ft. Benning were given to the Community Activities Association Fund Drive. Offerings from Protestant and Catholic services which this year include services of the Third Infantry Division chapels were designated as community fund Sunday donations. Last year's collections added $936.75 to the campaign. At the end of the campaign's sixth week, contributions total $106,904, according to Lt. Col. Kenneth A. Grimes, general chairman. This week the Third Infantry Division went over the top with 101.1 per cent, reported division officials. The top target is $36,358 with $36,758 collected through 6 Oct. These figures place the division donations well ahead of last year's record.

■ PRESIDIO OF SAN FRANCISCO.—At the halfway stage of the Bay Area United Crusade Fund Drive, military personnel and civilian employees of the Presidio of San Francisco have reached the three-quarter mark toward their goal of $36,015. It was announced by Col. Charles G. Rau, USA, Campaign Chairman for the Presidio of San Francisco.

In several instances over 100 percent of the potential has been realized. The Post Chaplains' Office, in what amounts to a silent testimonial to the importance of the United Crusade, have soared to 110 percent of the maximum set for them. Two other units have gone beyond their goal. Company "C," 6002 Service Unit and the WAC Detachment have registered 124 per cent and 105 percent respectively.

■ FT. BRAGG, N. C.—Financial support for the Fayetteville School for Exceptional Children was gained when a white woolen stole knitted by Mrs. Paul D. Adams, wife of Fort Bragg's commanding general, was presented to the holder of the winning ticket at the October luncheon of the Women's Club of Ft. Bragg. The stole, knitted of white wool interwoven with gold thread, was donated to the Women's Club by Mrs. Adams to help the club raise funds for the school, the only one of its kind for handicapped children in the Fort Bragg area. First vice-president Mrs. Eugene Smith presented the stole to the winner, Mrs. J. T. Burke during the luncheon meeting.

■ FT. CARSON, COLO. — "The Combined Charities Drive at Ft. Carson donated over $57,000 to local, state and national charities last year and we hope to exceed by far that figure this year," Lt. Col. Elint M. Cakalic, chairman of the Combined Charities Drive committee of Ft. Carson and Camp Hale, said recently. The 1956 fund raising drive began 8 Oct. at the two posts and will last through 31 Dec. Biggest beneficiary of last year's drive was the Colorado Springs Community Chest, which received nearly $20,000 from the civilian and military personnel at Carson and Hale. The Combined Charities Drive at Carson this year is setting as the goal the contribution of a day's pay from each soldier and civilian at the post.

■ WUERZBURG, GERMANY.—Negotiations for a new $52,000 Community Building in Wuerzburg have been completed and groundbreaking ceremonies are scheduled for the spring of 1957. The Community Building, which will be opened to all groups, clubs, or organizations to hold meetings and get-togethers, will be constructed in a vacant lot adjoining the Wuerzburg AYA Center. Completion of construction of two little league baseball diamonds, a little league football field, and plans for a new cinder track for the Wuerzburg Dependent High School also were announced.

Heads Sill Special Service

Obituaries

Capt. James Davis Taylor, USN-Ret.

Funeral services were held at New London, Conn. for Capt. James Davis Taylor, 3d, USN-Ret., who died at his home at New London, Conn., on 17 Sept., at the age of 52. Burial was at Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, D. C. Honorary pallbearers were his classmates and included RADM. Schuyler N. Pyne, USN, Brig. Gen. Alfred R. Peffey, USMC-Ret., RADM. Kenneth C. Hurd, USN-Ret., RADM. Carleton C. Hoffner, USN-Ret., Capt. George F. O'Keefe, USN-Ret., and RADM. Frederick B. Warder, USN.

A native of Florida, Captain Taylor was the son of the late Col. James D. Taylor, Jr., USA. His naval career began in 1925 when he was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy. Becoming a specialist in gunnery and torpedoes, Captain Taylor was a graduate of the Army and Navy Staff College in Washington. His last tour of active duty, before his retirement in 1947, was as Personnel Officer for the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific theater. At the time of his death, Captain Taylor was a sales engineer with the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corporation. He was president of the Connecticut branch of the Naval Academy Alumni Association, vice president of the Retired Officers Association and a past secretary of the Nathan Hale branch of the Sons of the American Revolution.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen Shepard Taylor of 119 Glenwood Ave., New London; three daughters, Miss Ann S. Taylor of New London, and by a previous marriage, Mrs. Chester Bowles, Jr., and Mrs. Victor M. Orneles, both of San Francisco, Calif.; his mother, Mrs. Helen Kepner Ellis of Washington, D. C., and four grandchildren.

Col. Frank B. Morgan, USAFR-Ret.

Col. Frank B. Morgan, USAFR-Ret., died recently at the North Broward Hospital, Pompano Beach, Fla., following a short illness. He was 60 years old.

A veteran of both World Wars, Colonel Morgan was the first commander of the New York Air Materiel Command Reserve Training Unit. During the Korean conflict, he was Air Force representative at the Sperry Gyroscope Co. at Great Neck, L. I. Before his retirement, Colonel Morgan was President of the Pension Corporation of America in New York City, and since then had lived at Pompano Beach, where he was President of the Frank B. Morgan Insurance Co., a director of the Chamber of Commerce, the Palm Ridge Corporation, a real estate firm, and of the Sunrise Development Co.

He is survived by his widow.

Richard Johnson Duval

Funeral services were held at St. Anne's Church, Annapolis, Md., on 29 Sept., for Associate Professor Richard Johnson Duval, who died at his home at Annapolis, on 26 Sept., at the age of 87. Burial was in St. Anne's Cemetery.

Appointed to the U. S. Naval Academy library in May 1888, Professor Duval remained there continuously until the end of October 1938, the last fourteen years of which he served as Librarian and Associate Professor.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. William R. Sayles of 221 Duke of Gloucester St., Annapolis; and two brothers, Col. Douglas F. Duval, MC, USA-Ret, of Annapolis, and Mr. Edmund P. Duval, a former major of Cavalry, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Col. Frederic W. C. Ledeboer, USA

Military Masonic graveside services were held at the National Cemetery, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif., for Col. Frederic W. C. Ledeboer, USA, who was killed in a plane crash near Buena Vista, Colo., on 24 Sept., while en route to Hamilton AFB, Calif. He was 50 years old.

A native of The Netherlands, Colonel Ledeboer entered the Army following his graduation from the University of California, in 1927. At the time of his death, he was serving as Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Intelligence on the staff of the Continental Air Defense Command, the first Army officer to be named to that office of the Joint Services team that makes up that Command.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Trudy Ledeboer of 714 So. Foote Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo.; one son, Frederic W. C. Ledeboer, Jr., presently a student at the University of California at Los Angeles; one daughter, Mrs. Marianne Johnston of 13383 Bradley Ave., San Fernando, Calif.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Ledeboer of 6113 Cashio St., Los Angeles; one brother, Mr. Henry Ledeboer, also of Los Angeles; and two granddaughters.

Col. John Francis Corby, MC, USA-Ret.

Burial services were held on 9 Oct., at the Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Francisco, Calif., for Col. John Francis Corby, MC, USA-Ret., who died at Letterman Army Hospital, on 5 Oct., at the age of 64.

A native of Pennsylvania, Colonel Corby served with the French Army as a civilian doctor, following his graduation from medical school in 1913. He joined the A.E.F., after the United States entered WWI, and served as regimental surgeon. He was retired from active duty in 1946.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Helen H. Corby; one son, Maj. J. F. Corby; one brother, Mr. Joseph F. Corby; four sisters, Mrs. Sarah C. Kraft, Mrs. May C. Parkhill, Mrs. Ethel C. Smith and Mrs. Nan C. Stiefel, and two grandchildren.

William J. Stanton

Funeral services were held at the Church of the Annunciation, Washington, D. C., on 6 Oct., for Mr. William J. Stanton, 82, who died at Kensington Gardens Sanatorium, Md., on 3 October. Burial was at the Gate of Heaven Cemetery, Md.

Father of Col. Walter C. Stanton, USA-Ret, of 3517 Davis St., N. W., Washington, and Col. Raymond G. Stanton, USA, now Chief of the Military District of South Carolina at Columbia, Mr. Stanton was associated for many years in a civil engineering capacity with the Office of Army Engineers at Philadelphia, Pa. Since his retirement, he had made his home in recent years in the Washington area. Mr. Stanton's late brother, Col. Hubert G. Stanton, was the founder of Stanton Preparatory School for Boys at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y.

In addition to his two sons, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret M. Stanton, who is making her home with Col. and Mrs. W. C. Stanton in Washington; three grandsons, Capt. W. C. Stanton, Jr., USA, of Ft. Benning, Ga., 2d Lt. Brendon P. Stanton, Ord C, of Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., and Cadet James D. Stanton, USMA '58; two great-grandchildren; three sisters, the Misses Margaret M., Gertrude R., and Julia G. Stanton of Metuchen, N. J.; and one brother, Mr. Thomas A. Stanton, also of Metuchen.

Col. John J. R. Weiss, USAF-Ret.

Funeral services were held at the Post Chapel, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif., on 4 Oct., for Col. John J. R. Weiss, USAF-Ret., 59, who died at Letterman Army Hospital, on 2 Oct., after an illness of more than two months. Burial was at the Presidio National Cemetery.

A native of Pennsylvania, Colonel Weiss was graduated from Muhlenberg College with a B. S. degree. He served in WWI as a flying instructor, and between the two World Wars, he did private flying while teaching at the Eastern Pa. High School. In WWII, Colonel Weiss served as Eastern District Technical Training Command Director, Second Air Force and later, as Deputy Base Commander at Alamogordo AFB, N. Mex. Retired from active duty in 1946, he had made his home at Sebring, Fla., and had since been graduated from the University of Florida Law School with an L.L.E. degree and admitted to the Florida Bar, practicing in Sebring. Following a short illness, Colonel Weiss entered the U. S. Air Force Hospital at Orlando AFB, Fla., and was later transferred, first to the Parks AFB, Calif. Hospital and finally, to Letterman Army Hospital.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ruth L. Weiss of Campbell, Calif.; one son, Mr. John Baker Weiss, 49 E. Latimer Ave., Campbell; and one daughter, Miss Jean Weiss of Los Angeles.

Lt Col. William Joseph Sobansky, Ret.

Funeral services were held at Washington, Pa., on 28 Sept., for Lt. Col. William Joseph Sobansky, Ret., 53, who died at the home of his sister near Washington, on 25 Sept., of a sudden heart attack. Burial was at Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

Born at Washington, Pa., Colonel Sobansky enlisted in the Pennsylvania National Guard

SAC NCO Policy Stresses Academy Graduates

Master sergeant replacements for SAC headquarters will be graduates of a SAC NCO Academy whenever possible, it is reported at Offutt AFB, Nebr.

The new replacement policy was made to give command directorates and staff agencies the benefit of the management and leadership training of the NCO academy graduates.

With 5,870 graduates now representing 41 career fields, SAC now has a sufficient number of academy NCOs to man most activities at command headquarters.

Waivers will be granted in cases involving small career fields where academy graduates were not available.

U. S. COAST GUARD

Commandant—Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond
Secretary of The Treasury—George M. Humphrey

A NEW program to modernize Coast Guard Search and Rescue aircraft gets underway next month.

At that time, eight twin-engine Grumman "Albatross" UF-1G's will be sent back to the manufacturers for improvements which, Air Force tests indicate, will increase their performance characteristics.

Since the time of its design, the demands on the performance of the UF-1G have increased to the point where single engine capability was not high enough for its gross weight. At the same time, at heavier operating weights, the plane's de-icing characteristics have proven inadequate.

Grumman will make major structural modifications on the CG planes. The changes include increasing the UF-1G's wing span by 17 feet; increasing the aileron span and stabilizer semi-span by five feet and one foot respectively; adding 18 inches to the fin; and installing more powerful de-icer boots, making use of cordwise inflation tubes.

With these modifications, Air Force tests have shown, the UF-1G's single engine service ceiling will increase from sea level at present to 5,000 feet; maximum specific range will jump .056 miles per pound of fuel; power-off stalling speed will drop from 76 to 72 knots; speed at power setting for maximum range will increase 35 knots (from 141 to 176 knots); and speed at normal rated power (continuous) will jump six knots (from 203 to 209 knots).

Modifications on five of the eight UF-1G's will be completed by 30 June 1957.

In addition, R-1300 Curtiss-Wright engines will be installed in all HO4S-1 and HO4S-2 Sikorsky helicopters.

The new engines will add 100 hp to the copters. Of the eight helicopters to be modified, six will enter the program during this fiscal year with three slated for completion before the FY's end.

In a further move to boost the performance of the HO4S's, the Coast Guard has purchased a new 600 pound capacity hoist for prototype installation aboard one of the copters.

It is anticipated that the new hoist will add to the operational capability of Coast Guard copters by eliminating cable kinking and fouling problems. In addition to being able to haul heavier loads than can be moved with existing equipment, the new hoist can easily be cut by a copter pilot in the event of an emergency.

Headquarters expects that new hoists for all HO4S' will be purchased late in FY '57 or early FY '58. They will be installed as soon as possible after delivery.

Army Trains Coast Guardsmen

The Army Antiaircraft Artillery and Tank Training Center, at Ft. Stewart, Ga., took on additional duties recently as a group of Charleston, S. C., Coast Guardsmen reported for small arms training.

While at Ft. Stewart, the Coast Guardsmen live in Army barracks with Headquarters Battery, 3444 Service Unit and train in the use of the M-1 rifle, .30 calibre carbine, and the .45 calibre pistol.

Warrant Appointments

The following assignments are conditional upon acceptance of appointments as warrant rank, W-1:

AFA Awards Given

Two Divisions of IT&T

Two divisions of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation received awards at the eighth annual convention of the Air Force Association's New Jersey Wing in Asbury Park on 13 Oct.

The honored companies were Federal Telecommunication Laboratories, Nutley, and Federal Telephone and Radio Company, Clifton.

Brig. Gen. Sandretto

The association's top award, the Air Power Trophy, symbolizing outstanding achievement in aviation for 1956, went to Raymond S. Perry, president of Federal Telephone and Radio Company. Mr. Perry was cited for his contributions to a wide variety of military and commercial aircraft products, including TACAN, the tactical air navigation system used by the Navy and Air Force and now a part of the approved civilian system.

The Wing's Research and Development Award for 1956 was accepted by FLT's Brig. Gen. Peter C. Sandretto, USAF, vice president and technical director, and Henri Busignies, president, who directed the TACAN program.

Additional honors were presented at the convention to the Port of New York Authority, for safety; Roy S. Hurley of Curtiss-Wright Corp., Wood-Ridge, for manpower; Kearfott Company, Little Falls, for electronic development; and James E. Ashman, president of Ultrasonic Company, Boston, former president of Air Associates in Teterboro, a special recognition award.

Capt. R. H. Northwood Commands Phila. GSSO

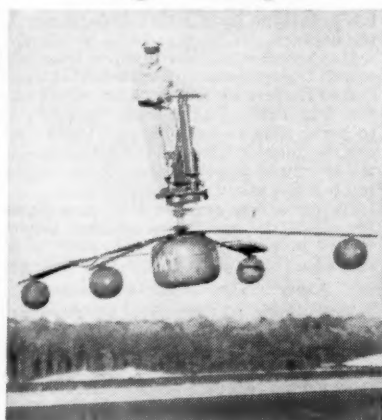

Capt. Robert H. Northwood, SC, USN, Assistant Fleet and Force Supply Officer, U. S. Pacific Fleet, has assumed command of the General Stores Supply Office, a Navy Supply System inventory control center in Philadelphia, Pa.

He succeeded Cdr. Allen J. Fisher, SC, USN, who resumed duties as GSSO Executive Officer.

In his new post, Captain Northwood will administer and control a world-wide system involving approximately 70,000 items of material, including such stores as steel, paint, lumber, electric cable, chemicals and hand tools. His Command performs inventory control, procurement, distribution and related functions. Sales of these items amount to about $200 million a year.

The Captain, his wife, the former June K. Gregory of Whitefish, Mont., and their two children, Lynn and Robert, Jr., reside at Quarters "E" at 700 Robbins Avenue.

"Magic Carpet"

THE Army's new experimental one-man helicopter was demonstrated at Ft. Belvoir's Davison Army Airfield for the first time publicly.

This item of equipment—known as the Aerocycle—is part of an Army research program to explore means of increasing battlefield ground mobility. Being investigated are the craft's potentialities for scouting, reconnaissance and observation. It has been designed to be flown by the average soldier without benefit of normal pilot training.

Directional controls are incorporated into handle bars and attitude of flight is controlled by shifting the operator's body weight. Initial tests of the Aerocycle at Camp Kilmer, N. J., proved that operators without previous flying experience could fly the machine after only 20 minutes instruction.

Piloting the Aerocycle in the photo is Capt. Selmer A. Sundby of the Transportation Research & Development Command, Ft. Eustis, Va. Last August, Captain Sundby established what is believed to be an unofficial endurance record for flying platform type aircraft when he remained aloft for 41 minutes executing turns, hovering, and accomplishing forward and lateral flight.

The Aerocycle's gross weight is about 500 pounds of which approximately 200 pounds is payload. It flies at an estimated maximum speed of 40 miles per hour and is capable of alighting on either land or water.

The copter is a product of The DeLackner Helicopter Corp., Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Order More F-104s

Lockheed Aircraft Corporation has received two Air Force contracts totaling $166,000,000 for additional supersonic F-104 Starfighters, both single-seat and two-seat versions.

One letter contract, for $115,000,000 worth of one-man F-104As, is the largest single order for jet fighters in Lockheed's 13 years of continuous jet production.

In addition to the order for F-104's, a $51,000,000 contract also was received for the two-seat F-104B Starfighter. Both are in production at Lockheed's California Division.

JCS Chief Sees Need For Improved Transportation; Honors D. W. Douglas

The National Defense Transportation Award for 1956 was presented on 17 Oct. to Mr. Donald Wills Douglas, sr., President and Chairman of the Board, Douglas Aircraft Co.

Admiral Arthur W. Radford, USN, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, made the presentation during the Salt Lake City convention of the National Defense Transportation Association.

The JCS Chairman said Mr. Douglas' contributions to military and civil transportation have meant much to the national security of the United States.

"THE FACT THAT OVER HALF of all commercial airline planes in the world have been built by Douglas is a reflection of Don's knowledge and ability," he told the convention.

Admiral Radford recalled that the DC-3 and DC-4, for which the aircraft company executive "is probably best known," are the two planes which made possible the world-wide military air transport network in WWII.

He also noted that the new Douglas turbo-prop C-133 soon "will take its place as the first intercontinental turbo-prop transport in military use."

Discussing technological progress in the air, Admiral Radford said these advances make profound impact on military strategy and tactics, and "They make air transportation an increasingly vital part of our mobility preparedness."

He cautioned, however, that with the increasing emphasis on strategic mobility it "would be wise to avoid the pitfall of regarding air transportation per se as the answer to all our problems." He said, in the future "it may well be determined that the bulk of the forces and equipment to be moved to and from overseas could be moved more expeditiously and easily by means of improved surface transportation."

The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs declared that the Armed Forces have "major air transport requirements for the quick movement of tailored, specialized package forces," but also "major surface transport requirements for the movement of other forces as well as large amounts of equipment and supplies." The two systems, he said, "must be mutually supporting."

FOR THE LONG TERM FUTURE, he told the NDTA, "we must improve our capabilities in all forms of transportation—both surface and air—and including containerization, palletization and packaging."

USN Unveils Its Seventh Guided Missile; "Sidewinder" Is Operational With Fleet

The Navy has added the "Sidewinder" to its stable of missiles.

Two Navy squadrons already have been equipped with the new air-to-air guided missile. Attack Squadron 46 is operating from the deck of the USS Randolph with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean and Fighter Squadron 211 on board the USS Bon Homme Richard with the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

RADM. Frederick S. Withington, USN, Chief, Bureau of Ordnance, states that the "Sidewinder"—named after the fast-striking desert rattlesnake—represents a new approach to weapons systems for defense against supersonic aircraft. The new weapon is much less complex than other Navy guided missiles. It has very few moving parts and no more electronic components than an ordinary radio.

Its simplicity, the Navy said, makes it possible for sailors to handle and assemble the missile without the necessity of undergoing specialized technical training. In addition, Navy and Marine pilots will require little or no special flight training to become proficient in its use.

The "Sidewinder" is a rugged and relatively inexpensive missile capable of operating against high performance-type planes. Testing has shown that it is reliable and can hit fighters and bombers from sea level up to altitudes over 50,000 feet.

The Navy said that it is basically a defensive weapon and would be used to augment the protection of Fleet ships from attacks by enemy aircraft.

"Sidewinder" also will be used in the air defense of the continental United States.

The missile was conceived and developed by BuOrd's Naval Test Station, ASST. NAVY SEC. RAYMOND H. FOGLER presents the Navy's Distinguished Public Service Award to Mr. George E. Fouch, General Manager of the Evendale Operating Department at General Electric Company's jet engine plant, Cincinnati, Ohio. VADM. E. W. Clepton, USN, Chief of Naval Material, observes. Mr. Fouch received the Award for his volunteer services to the U. S. Navy as advisor, consultant and lecturer on Industrial Programming.

China Lake, Calif. It is in production by Philco's Government Industrial Division in Philadelphia, Pa.

The requirement for "Sidewinder" was assigned to the China Lake Station in 1950. The original concept was evolved by Dr. W. B. McLaeen, now Technical Director of NOTS.

Introduction of "Sidewinder" into the Fleet brings to seven the number of Navy missiles now in operation or in the development stage.

Aerojet-General Breaks Ground For New AF $13-Million Facility For ICBM Rockets

A symbolic "Forty-Niner" clad in miner's garb and swinging a pick, teamed up with President Dan A. Kimball of Aerojet-General Corporation, astride a modern tractor, to break ground recently for Aerojet's new $13,000,000 Air Force Production Plant for ICBM rocket engines at Sacramento, Calif.

The ceremonies were witnessed by several hundred residents and employees, who heard General E. W. Rawlings, USAF, Commander, Air Materiel Command, say that the new plant is another link in the defense chain the United States is building up against any aggressor.

General Rawlings was the principal speaker at ceremonies held at the site of the new plant, just west of the cafeteria. Other speakers included Maj. Gen. B. A. Schriever, USAF, Commander, Western Development Division, Representative John E. Moss of the 3d Congressional District, in which Aerojet's Sacramento plants are located, and Former Navy Secretary Dan A. Kimball, Aerojet's President.

General Schriever said that Aerojet's liquid rocket engines are one of the keys to the success of the nation's ballistic missiles program. He said the new Aerojet plant would effectively speed the implementation of Air Force projects for large ballistic missiles.

RETIRED SERVICE NOTES

AG Seeks Former Army And QMC Clerks And Field Clerks; $$$ In The Balance

Former Army Field Clerks, Army Headquarters Clerks, QMC Field Clerks and QMC Clerks are being requested to get in touch with the Army Adjutant General.

Under Public Law 601, passed by the 84th Congress, service performed as Army Field Clerk and QMC Field Clerk is now satisfactory Federal service. Service performed as an Army Headquarters Clerk or as a QMC Clerk under laws in effect prior to 29 Aug 1916 is now credited as satisfactory Federal service in WO status for those clerks who were appointed warrant officers.

Retired personnel in the above categories, who were retired under Title III, PL 810, should write to the Adjutant General, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., Attention: AGPO-SC and request that their service be recomputed.

Those previously denied retired pay under this law due to such service not being credited should also write the Army AG and request to be placed on the AUS Retired List if their total service is now sufficient to qualify them for retired pay.

Entitlement to retired pay or additional retired pay accrues only for periods after 20 June 1956, the effective date of the new law.

They Keep Busy

COL. HOWARD M. McCOY, USAF-Ret., has been named Washington Representative of the Propeller Division, Curtiss-Wright Corporation, Caldwell, N. J. A USMA '30 graduate, he received a Master of Science degree in aeronautical engineering from California Institute of Technology in 1935. In 1940 he returned to Cal. Tech. and in 1941 was awarded a professional aeronautical engineering certificate.

RADM. LAMONT PUGH, MC, USN-Ret., former Navy Surgeon General and Commanding Officer of the National Naval Medical Center, has been appointed a University Physician by The George Washington University. He will participate in the student health programs of the Health Administration, under Director Richard B. Castell, M.D. The Health Administration department maintains a Student Health Clinic on campus where a University Physician and a graduate nurse are on duty every day. Student Health Services include medical care and hospitalization in the University Hospital. Admiral Pugh lives at 3579 South Stafford Street, Arlington, Va.

RADM. HAROLD E. PARKER, USN-Ret., has been appointed Chairman of the National Advisory Council of the National Association of Veterans Employment Councils. A USNA '30 graduate, he retired in 1952 and lives at 3900 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

BRIG. GEN. D. G. SHINGLER, USA-Ret., and Mrs. Shingler are visiting relatives and friends in South Carolina. For the past two years, they have been in the Far East where General Shingler was Engineer Consultant to the U. N. Construction Agency in Korea. They will also visit friends in Washington and New York prior to their departure in October for the Middle East where General Shingler will be Engineer Consultant on Iraq Government projects, with headquarters at Baghdad.

LT. COL. MARTIN S. RYAN, USA-Ret., has succeeded Brig. Gen. Frederick M. Harris as PMST&T at Randolph-Macon Academy, Front Royal, Va. His service in Korea included duty as commander of the 91st MP Bn., which had control of North Korean prisoners at Kojedo.

BRIG. GEN. MILES M. DAWSON, USA-Ret., has been named manager of the newly organized Distribution Services Department, it is announced by John K. Hodnette, Vice President and General Manager of Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

Crack CAP Units Team With AFR, MATS, and TAC

Jorie L. Householder, USAF, was the Flight Nurse. Flight engineer was S/Sgt. John J. Kropp, and the medical technicians were S/Sgts. Bobbie N. Stull and Embress Hentschel. The crew was from the 1731st Air Transport Sqdn. (L) (AE) of MATS at Scott AFB, Ill.

During the day, the skilled Samaritan medical team showed how a patient is moved from an iron lung to the specially designed iron lung carried aboard the plane. The test had supposed that patients needed to be evacuated from the local hospital and that one of these patients was a victim of polio.

Joining the TAC and MATS "professionals" were two C-46's of the Air Force Reserve 512th Troop Carrier Wing, which brought in trained personnel of the 512th Tactical Hospital, under Col. Reno R. Carbonetta, USAFR, of Lancaster, Pa.

One of the C-46's was commanded by Col. John S. Bagby, USAFR, of Philadelphia, who is the wing commander. His co-pilot was 1st Lt. James D. Shaffer, USAFR, of Shamokin, Pa., with T/Sgt. Jacob Jacoby of Allentown, Pa., as Crew Chief.

The other Reserve plane was flown by 1st Lt. Grady Miller, USAFR, of York, Pa., with 1st Lt. Victor Casper, of Drums, Pa., as co-pilot and S/Sgt. Edward J. Quinn, of Norristown, Pa., as Crew Chief. On hand to explain how Reserve medical units would be employed in event of emergency was Maj. John R. D'Angelo, USAFR, the Wing's Information Services Officer.

AUGMENTING THE PLANES of the CAP in the rescue operations, which saw simulated casualties searched out and rescued from flood-struck areas, were Sikorsky H-21 helicopters. One was flown from Sewart AFB, Tenn. by Capt. Harry B. Rhoades, USAF, and Capt. Forrest G. Thompson, USAF, from Sewart AFB. Crew Chief was A 1/c Donald G. Baker.

Another H-21 was flown by Maj. Edward L. Thompson, USAF, and Capt. Victory Gowdy, USAF. It came from nearby Olmstead AFB, Pa., which is the central point for helicopter maintenance in the Air Force. One of the many Air Force officers who watched the Hi-Water test was Col. F. D. Shoemaker, USAF, Olmstead Commander.

In addition to General Agee, the National CAP Commander, the Air Force sent some of its senior medical officers to be observers. They included Brig. Gen. M. Samuel White, MC, USAF, Director of Medical Staffing and Education in the Office of the Surgeon General; Brig. Gen. M. S. Lee, MC, USAF, TAC Surgeon from Langley AFB, Va.; Col. A. H. Corliss, MC, USAF, First Air Force Surgeon from Mitchell AFB, N. Y.; and Col. L. Render Braswell, MC, USAF, MATS surgeon.

COLONEL NEUWEILER, a prominent Allentown business man, was late in attending a Saturday night briefing and reception at the Americus Hotel, where he was to have reviewed the day's activities for visiting newsmen. He sent his apologies, explaining that he would remain at the airport command post until the last of

PL 810 Retirements

The Army has placed the following named National Guard and Reserve officers on the retired list upon their attainment of age 60 and completion of at least 20 years creditable service as provided under Title III, PL 810, 80th Congress:

Colonel	Burns, Arthur S
Lt Colonel	Paul, Warren D
James, Harold C	Weltman, William C
Atkins, William W	Barnitz, Richard B
Harper, James K	Major

the aircraft had returned from evacuation missions.

Deputy Commander for Hi-Water was Lt. Col. Michael Hancharick of the Pennsylvania CAP. Other leading CAP officers were Maj. Herbert Frye, who was in command of the airport base and Maj. William Bechtel and Capt. Rodney Shaub, who directed operations from satellite bases. Capt. Richard Wolfe was Operations Officer, assisted by Maj. Louis Nocito, with Captain Wolfe doubling as Air Rescue Service officer.

Another double participant was Lt. Col. John N. Weaver. He is Wing Chaplain, but also leads the Ranger Group, which is responsible for ground rescue work.

Capt. Valentino Scarcia was Provost Marshal and Maj. Tom Davis handled public information responsibilities.

Maintaining the intricate communications set-up used for the test was Maj. Charles Dibble, aided by Capt. Wilfred Kern.

Lt. Col. Frank Roscoe was medical officer. It was his job to supervise the evacuation of patients to the Allentown Airport, where they were examined by specially trained teams of doctors and nurses. The cases that could be handled at the field hospital facilities were taken care of on the spot. Where this could not be done, the casualties were prepared for evacuation to Andrews and Mitchell.

For some of the major "casualties", who in fact were mostly young members of the CAP, the disaster had its happy moments—a plane ride in the company of two attractive nurses.

COMMUNICATIONS
PROJECTS

... to recruit and train the technical manpower for, and to maintain and operate

★ the DEW LINE

★ WHITE ALICE

Two of the greatest Arctic construction jobs ever attempted are drawing to a dramatic climax.

One, the Distant Early Warning (DEW) line, will flash the first warning of an enemy approaching from the north. It is America's latest answer to the challenge of maintaining world peace.

The other, Alaska Integrated Communications Exchange (White Alice), is a vital network including "over-the-horizon" and "line-of-sight" microwave links connecting isolated communities and defense installations across Alaska, as well as existing telephone and telegraph services.

Manpower of the highest order in skills, stamina and intelligence is imperative. The U. S. Air Force has selected Federal Electric Corporation, a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, to operate and maintain both these far-flung installations.

Federal Electric Corporation's experience on military assignments in the Arctic... in the maintenance of specialized navigational equipment for the Air Force... as a field service and maintenance organization for IT&T's laboratories and factories... coupled with the world-wide experience of IT&T, make this an ideal partnership for so broad and technical an undertaking.
